The President's Veto Mellon and Lord Chatham Get Your Automobile Procter-Gamble Soldiers

—By Arthur Brisbane—

YESTERDAY THE SENATE interested itself in a new veterans' bill, the original bill, giving $103,000,000 a year more to veterans, having been vetoed by President Hoover.

Some disagreed with the veto, but nobody will deny that it required courage. There is only a loss of votes, next time, in the veto. There would have been many votes to gain by signing it.

The President pointed out that seventy of the $103,000,000 a year would go to men not injured in the war, also that the government now pays $500,000,000 a year to war veterans.

At that rate, if we had had as many casualties as France had, or Germany, all the money in the United States would not pay the pension account.

Some, disturbed by depressed business, may find comfort in news that our "best" people are happy and gay as ever.

More of them are in Europe this year than last, more of them at desirable United States resorts, especially Bar Harbor and Newport.

All this you learn from the Social Register, of New York, the real one, not the imitation registers that organized "to supply exclusiveness to the [illegible] classes."

Washington says Secretary Mellon will devote his vacation to teaching banking and corporation management to his son, Paul, back from a post-graduate course at Cambridge.

An attentive son can learn more from his father than from a thousand professors put together, if his father KNOWS. And Mr. Mellon does know.

In a grave in Westminster Abbey, a father and son lie side by side, Pitt, who kept Napoleon out of England, and his father, Lord Earl of Chatham.

Pitt, a delicate boy, was taught in youth by his father, and later, studied statesmanship at his father's dinner table, listening to Chatham and other older men. He entered the House of Commons, and was chancellor of the exchequer at 22, and prime minister at 23.

Automobile companies report sales greatly diminished in June.

This means that many Americans are making a serious mistake. Efficiency and rapid motion go together. You wouldn't think much of a bird that decided to economize by doing without wings. Better do without something else.

An automobile, wisely bought, used and cared for, is not an extravagance for any man. It is a necessary part of modern equipment, and to do without it is the worst kind of "false economy."

Procter & Gamble, which is the family name of Ivory Soap, is reported to have purchased the French Cadum Soap Company, one of the biggest in Europe, with a business of $35,000,000 a year.

The Procter & Gamble people are considering other purchases of soap companies in Britain, France and Germany.

In the days of Caesar and Lucullus, men went out to conquer nations with arms.

Now dollars do the work and are the soldiers conquering more quietly, more surely.

Mr. Lingle, reporter for the Chicago Tribune, murdered, turns out to have been deep in the plans, and probably sharing the profits of gangsters, according to detectives' statements. His salary was $60 a week, and his income $60,000 a year.

The most serious statement in this lamentable exposure is that Lingle dealt in police promotion. To be made police lieutenant the charge was $1500, for a captain, $5000.

No wonder some of the police turn to graft and gangsters, when the position they hold is part of a graft system.

The incident in no way discredits the Chicago Tribune, which knew nothing of Lingle's underworld life.

However, Col. McCormick and Major Patterson, whose ownership controls the Tribune, will want to know what particular individual, in the Tribune organization, DID know of Lingle's activities, supporting him with the Tribune's authority, and presumably sharing his profits.

Hope springs eternal.

Mr. Andrew McCampbell, new prohibition boss in New York, says he will check rich and lawless New Yorkers please to change their habits. You might as well ask the leopard to change his spots. He can only do it, as has been said, by getting up from one spot and moving to another. The New Yorker can change his habits only by getting up from one speakeasy and moving to another.

BOSTON HEAVY SIGNS FOR FIGHT

Agrees to Pay Buelow, Schmeling's Deposed Manager, a Share of Purse

New York, July 2 (INS)—Jack Sharkey today was signed to meet Max Schmeling of Germany in a return fight for the world's heavyweight championship, it was announced at Madison Square Garden.

Sharkey, through his manager, Johnny Buckley, accepted the challenger's purse of 12½ per cent of the receipts and agreed to pay Arthur Buelow, Schmeling's discharged manager, out of his share of the purse. The date of the fight, if held, was set for Sept. 25 and the Yankee Stadium was named as its site.

Schmeling, who is en route to his German home, has not accepted the match, his manager, Joe Jacobs, having exacted several "conditions," which have not yet been met. The Garden management declared that it expected to have Jacobs' acceptance of the fight "within a day or two."

The first Sharkey-Schmeling fight, held early in June, ended in a foul in the fourth round, Schmeling being declared the winner and receiving official recognition as the new champion. Sharkey was far in the lead on points when the foul took place.

Babe Hits 31st Off Henry

New York, July 2 (AP)—Babe Ruth hit his 31st home run of the season today in the fifth inning of the first Yankee-Chicago game, Byrd was on second when Ruth connected with Dutch Henry's delivery and the homer gave the Yankees a 5 to 1 lead

VOTE $250,000 TO LAW BOARD

Washington, July 2 (AP)—The House voted $250,000 to the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission today for continuation of its general study through another year.

Before that sum is assured, however, differences with the Senate must be reconciled. The Senate voted only $50,000 and limited the commission to an inquiry into prohibition enforcement.

The House first voted authorization for continuation of the study with the larger fund. Then the amount was inserted in the second deficiency bill to replace the Senate provision.

The House vote was 272 to 41.

Boulder Dam Assured

Washington, July 2 (AP)—Final congressional action was completed on that portion of the second deficiency bill carrying $10,750,000 for the initial work on Boulder Canyon dam today when the House agreed to a partial conference report.

BOSTON GIRL'S WEDDING TO BE MILE IN AIR

Helen MacLeod to Be Bride of Pittsburgh Flier in Plane With Brookline Pastor

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 2 (AP)—Plans for the wedding of Miss Helen G. MacLeod of Boston and John R. Bazley, in charge of line service for the Curtiss-Wright Airplane Company at Bettis Field, McKeesport, in an 18-passenger plane 5000 feet in the air were being made today.

Miss MacLeod and Bazley will be married Sunday and the Rev. James Sam Jewell, Brookline, Mass., Baptist minister, will officiate at the "mile high" ceremony. The plans call for them to be wed by parachute.

Before that can be assured, however, differences with the Senate must be reconciled. The Senate voted only $50,000 and limited the commission to an inquiry into prohibition enforcement.

The House first voted authorization for continuation of the study with the larger fund. Then the amount was inserted in the second deficiency bill to replace the Senate provision.

The House vote was 272 to 41.

Army Flier Pauses in Flight to Maine

Scott Field, Ill., July 2 (AP)—Lieut. Yantis H. Taylor, army flier on a one-day test flight from Laredo, Tex., to Portland, Me., landed at Scott Field at 9 a. m. today and took off five minutes later to resume his dash to the army's far-thest north field. His next stop was at Dayton, O.

Boy, 3, Saved From Drowning in Charles

John Fitzmaurice, three, of 23 Virma ave., Watertown, was rescued from drowning by unidentified boys today after he had been seized with a cramp and had sunk in the Charles river off Magazine Beach, Cambridge. He was rushed to Cambridge Hospital and resuscitated.

N. Y. IN WILD ACCLAIM FOR BOBBY JONES

Golf Champion Returns Home With British Crowns as Broadway Shouts

New York, July 2 (INS)—The sidewalks of New York, representing the nation's sportsmen, today welcomed home the king of golfers and the peer of all sportsmen—"Bobby" Jones.

"Ladies and gentlemen"—in that rich southern drawl, were Bobby's first words to thousands of radio listeners who strained to hear the end of the links legend, via microphone through the harbor boat which was the reception of a typical Gotham "blowout."

They overcame by the welcome.

"I'm happy to be home again."

And then the handshakers and the newsmen and the photographers claimed him for their own as the Jones family was obliged to stand by and watch their modest, perspiring big boy smilingly try to meet the demands of all.

Meanwhile the harbor craft shrieked and cavorted about the official welcome boat. Fireboats sported their geyser-sprays.

At the Battery a crowd which had worried police lines for more than three hours craned for a first glimpse of the hero.

Thousands already had lined Broadway for the triumphal march and hundreds more had packed into City Hall Park for the ceremonies on the well-worn victors' stand.

2 Given Pardons by Gov. Allen

John N. Perry, former assistant treasurer and receiving teller of the Beacon Trust Co., and Thomas H. Laughran, ex-Lawrence policeman, serving sentences in State Prison, were pardoned by Governor Allen today under parole.

Perry in October of 1929 was sentenced to three to five years for larceny, it having been proved that he "loaned" $40,000 to another without personally benefiting.

Convicted of having accepted a bribe, Laughran on September 28, 1925, was sentenced to four to six years. He was at the Rutland Prison Camp.

Hail to the Golf King!

"ACE OF CLUBS" smiles over many golf victories as he comes home. This is a close-up of "Bobby" Jones, who was wildly acclaimed when he arrived in New York today with all the British golf titles.

PLANE NEARLY DRY AS FEED SHIP BALKS ON WAY

Hunters Can't Agree on Landing, So They'll Keep on Flying

Chicago, July 2—John and Kenneth Hunter in the monoplane City of Chicago, flew into their 503rd continuous hour over Sky Harbor today at 1:40 p. m. (C. S. T.), [illegible] S. T.) today.

They were approximately 24 hours ahead of the nonstop world's record for endurance flying.

Kenneth wants to come down and end the maddening monotony of three weeks' ceaseless flying to the changeless refrain of the City of Chicago's vibrant motor and whirring "prop."

FEEDER PLANE BALKS

Minutes ticked on into dollars. The 501st hour came and went, and in 18 more hours $10,000 from an oil company, which pledged $100 for each hour beyond the 430-hour record, with a $10,000 limit.

Kenneth scribbled a note, dropped it to Walter and Albert, the Hunter brothers down at the Sky Harbor hangar. It was marked "personal" and the refueling crew would not reveal its text, but they said Kenneth thought the flight should end today.

"But John will stay up there forever," said Walter.

When the motor of Big Ben, feeder plane, failed today as it was being warmed up for the first morning contact, things looked black for the fliers.

Now in the air more than 500 hours, the fliers were running short of gasoline, having had no contact with the supply plane since early last night.

The Big Ben warming up, for the first morning contact sputtered and died, but a few minutes of frantic work put the engine in tune, and Walter and Albert Hunter went aloft with 50 gallons of gasoline.

REPAIRS IN AIR

Repelling the wild tide of time and mechanical fallibilities like Leonidas and his three hundred of old, Kenneth and John Hunter zoomed restfully near their 503-hour aloft.

The engine purred an indignant retort to reports that the flight of the City of Chicago would end shortly. Earlier a conference of Walter and Albert Hunter, the crew at the refueling ship, with others interested in the flight, disclosed that three cylinders of the endurance plane's motor, which had not been getting off for three days, had been fitted with new pipes and were now working smoothly.

Among the congratulatory messages received was one from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who in the days when he was "Slim," an air mail pilot, barnstormed several times with the Hunter brothers.

WON'T COME DOWN

The mark of 500 hours held no satisfaction for the brother-pilots—now that they have surpassed by scores of hours the record of Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine, set at 420 hours plus in the St. Louis Robin.

Late today the plane is expected to complete its third week in the

NABBED 6 TIMES AS GARRETT

"This man looks like Garrett but is not. Please don't bother him."

That was the message sent over the police teletype and through the Greater Boston district from police headquarters today after a well known Boston business man had been held up and questioned by vigilant policemen a half dozen times.

Boston authorities received a "hot tip" yesterday that Oliver H. Garrett, defaulter and former liquor raider, was riding about Weymouth and Nantasket in an automobile. They flashed the tip on the teletype, giving the registration of the car and the results sponsored today's message.

The hunt for Garrett extended today to Tyngsboro and over the state line into New Hampshire, following one of numerous vague "tips."

Mrs. John Desimas reported that the man in a car she believes was Garrett stopped at her house on the Pawtucket boulevard in Tyngsboro and bought flowers.

He was driving a high-powered, closed car and mentioned that he was en route to Wilton, N. H.

Bars Men in Court Without Neckties

Several men who appeared in Quincy court today without neckties because of the heat were ordered by Judge Daniel F. O'Connell of the Superior Court to get ties before they could testify. Judge O'Connell was holding a special session for naturalization cases.

"I know it's hot, but court is court and its dignity must be maintained," he said.

Nearby haberdasheries did a brisk business for the next few minutes.

WIFE TAKES BLAME FOR BOOTLEGGER

Lowell, July 2 (AP)—Eudaviste Barrette of this city, alleged bootlegger with a police record, was held in $1000 bail for federal grand jury today, although his wife, Angelina, sought unsuccessfully to persuade U. S. Commissioner R. B. Walsh that she alone was responsible for the elaborately concealed speakeasy which raiding officers found when they raided the cellar of their home here.

Aged 'Lifer,' Freed, Kisses Allen; Sails

Joseph A. Hastings, aged "lifer" recently pardoned by Gov. Allen, will leave Boston this afternoon a free man, after being confined 28 years in the Charlestown State Prison. He will spend the rest of his days in Cork, Ireland, his birthplace.

Hastings was convicted of the murder of Mrs. Dora Trask of Beverly, following a prolonged drinking bout by Hastings after he had been jilted by the woman for another man.

This morning Hastings was met at the prison by his two attorneys, Francis E. Rafter and Charles A. Green, both of Salem, in which city Hastings resided when he committed the crime.

KISSES GOVERNOR'S HAND

He was introduced to Gov. Allen by Frank A. Brooke, chairman of the parole board, and was much affected. He kissed the governor's hand and said:

"Governor, I can't express my thankenough. All I can say is I will pray for you to my dying day."

Gov. Allen placed a hand on Hastings' shoulder and said:

"I would not have pardoned you if you had not deserved it."

"Don't you worry," Hastings replied, "I'll be good the rest of my life."

"That's what I wanted to hear you say. Thank you," said the governor.

The governor then gave Hastings a handful of cigars.

The trio journeyed to the State House, where he thanken Chairman Brooks for the commendation

FORFEITS TITLE, BUT SAVES SON

Seth E. Eames, Sr., of Swampscott, today sacrificed the skin of his right hand and his chances of annexing the Tedesco Country Club golf title to save the life of the son named after him.

Eames, Jr., aged eight, was shooting Roman candles in a premature celebration of Independence Day on the ground of the Eames estate in Walker rd., when a ball from the candle dropped into his pocket. There it ignited a pinwheel and other fireworks and in a short time his clothing was a mass of flames.

His father, Boston and Lynn restaurant owner, rushed from the house and beat out the flames with his bare hands, burning the right so badly that he was taken to Lynn Hospital. The son escaped with minor burns.

Until the accident, Eames was a favorite to win the Tedesco title during the present tournament. He formerly held it.

AMERICAN LEGION DEFENSE BOARD DISAPPROVES NAVAL PACT

ALL POSTS IN U.S. TO VOTE ON TREATY

Recommendation of National Committee Is to Be Acted on to Impress Senate

Washington, July 1—The National Defense Committee of the American Legion has reached a highly important decision,which for the moment is being kept secret, on its policy toward the London naval treaty, it was learned today.

It is understood the committee wrote a report signed by a majority in which it recommends that the Legion withhold support from the treaty.

It is to be sent to Legion posts throughout the United States for approval or disapproval and then will be made public. This action is being expedited so the special session of the Senate will know the attitude of the veterans' organization shortly after it meets to begin consideration of the London pact.

SECRET MEETING

The defense committee only recently concluded a closed session in Washington. It had been ordered to meet by the executive committee, with headquarters in Indianapolis, and make a study of the treaty so as to recommend to the Legion what its policy should be.

The committee is composed of Col. C. B. Robbins, former Assistant Secretary of War, as chairman; Maj. C. E. McCullough, Chicago; Maj-Gen. Amos Fries, Dublin Marsley, Florida, former national commander; Ralph A. O'Neil, Topeka; Albert L. Coe, Raleigh; Charles W. Shick, Chicago; Maj-Gen. John A. Lejeune and William P. McCracken, former Assistant Secretary of Commerce.

CALLED ON HOOVER.

The committee called before it Senators Reed and Robinson, and Secretary of the Navy Adams, all members of the American delegation to the London armaments conference, and practically all of the naval officers who appeared before the Senate foreign affairs committee.

After hearing these witnesses the committee went to the White House and for two hours conferred with President Hoover who strongly urged the members to publicly support the London pact through their various posts. The committee, it was definitely learned, declined to make any commitment.

It was understood the committee voted six to two in opposition to the pact, one of the nine members being absent.

Borah Admits Chances for Treaty Are Not Bright

Washington, July 2—Action on the London naval treaty must be postponed until after the November elections, unless it can be jammed through the Senate in a week.

This was conceded today by Senator Borah of Idaho, who, as chairman of the foreign relations committee, is in charge of the fight for ratification of the treaty.

During a discussion of the prospect for action on the treaty, Borah was asked if he thought the special session of the Senate would last a month. He replied:

"No. Unless we can ratify the treaty within a week we won't be able to hold a quorum of the Senate in Washington."

Investigation on in Laundry Blaze

Leominster, July 2—A fire believed to have been incendiary and doing damage estimated at $3000, practically destroyed the plant of the Leominster Steam Laundry in Pleasant at early today.

Patrolman George Hebert smelled smoke and traced it to the laundry. Acting Chief of Police Leslie N. Harvey, of the Leominster police, and state officials are conducting an investigation.

FLIERS REACH 503D HOUR

air—by far the longest time man an machine ever have remained aloft.

John today dropped a note to be telegraphed his sister, Miss Mabelle Hunter, who is ill in a hospital. It was an answer to her message delivered by radio yesterday, in which she expressed worry over their speeds and health.

The note read:

"What do you say, 'bob' (Mabelle's nickname)? Who don't know how to break a record? Well, we have close to 500 hours and the motor is running fairly good yet. I don't know how much longer it will last. 'Beans' (Kenneth) is fretting and wants to come down at 520 hours but I want to stay up till Monday.

"It has been tough, but nothing like the other flight. We are feeling fine, although 'Beans' is getting pretty sleepy.

"We go out and work on that old motor as if it were on the ground (holiness). But I did go out on the catwalk this morning at 3 o'clock and put a new breaker in the magneto.

"Now don't go worrying about us, because we are all right. We can still talk, and to prove it, we will all 'some down and make a big speech for you."

As the pilots roared through their 500th hour aloft, an Army plane soared overhead endeavoring to drop a radio contact for a noon broadcast by the record-holding pilots.

Five attempts were made by the radio men aboard the Army plane, but the air currents seemed choppy and the fliers aboard the endurance plane declined to risk reaching for the radio hookup. It was the first time an attempt to make contact with the City of Chicago was not completed.

Firecracker Lands Rum-Runner in Toils of Law

Wheeling, W. Va., July 2 (AP)—Eugene Crowder's guilty conscience and a boy's premature celebration of the Fourth had Crowder in jail today.

Crowder was wamily driving a cargo, police said, of 30 gallons of liquor. A boy tossed a firecracker beneath the machine. Crowder, apparently thinking of guns and hi-jackers or prohibition agents, leaped from the machine and fled. The car rumbled on, nosing finally into a parked auto at the curb.

Valor conquering discretion, Crowder returned, just in time to meet a policeman satisfying his curiosity regarding the accident.

to the governor for his release, which was given with the understanding that he would be cared for by his two sisters in Ireland.

"I am glad to go," said Hastings, who is 60, "I feel like I was 25 and am looking forward eagerly to the hour when I can be with my own again."

PRAISES PRISON FIGHT

Hastings praised the Boston Evening American highly for its campaign to eliminate the State Prison at Charlestown.

"The Boston American is a great paper," he said. It is always fighting for the weak and the oppressed. The fight to get rid of the old prison is appreciated by the inmates. Like the days of the ball-and-chain and the dungeons when I first entered, its time has gone by.

"When sentenced to life 24 years ago last March I never expected to live the sentence out, much less get a pardon. I feel like a million, and when I get to Ireland I will feel like two million.

"Liberty is God's most precious gift. I wouldn't give up 24 hours of it again for my worst enemy. No one can ever know the value of liberty until he has been deprived of it."

AUTO BIGGEST CHANGE

Asked what he considered the greatest changes that have taken place since he lost his liberty, Hastings promptly replied:

"The hurly burly and the traffic congestion. There were few automobiles when I entered prison."

The last five years he spent at Rutland, where he was cured of a throat affection. For six weeks he has been waiting at Charlestown while arrangements were being made for his journey to Ireland, one of the conditions of his pardon.

Hastings expressed the opinion that the sale of firearms should be under government supervision.

"It is altogether too easy to get firearms," he said. "You can buy on the installment plan and pay after getting your gun."

5 BOYS GET 20 TO 25 YEARS

New York, July 2 (AP)—Four boys of their teens and a fifth who is 20 were sentenced today to prison terms of 20 to 25 years for a cigar store holdup last January in which a negro was killed.

Alfonso Miresi, 19, former student in Blair Academy at Blairstown, N. J., got 25 years. He was alleged to have shot the negro.

Robert D. Hayes, 18, of Newport, R. I.; Francis Neves, 18, Harry Neubert, 19, and Joseph Gannon, 20, each got 20 to 25 years.

Principal Is Not to Be Divided Until Youngest Grandson Reaches Age of 40

White Plains, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—No evidence of the reputed fortune amassed by William Barnes, former Republican politician of New York, who died a week ago, was contained in his will, filed for probate today.

All bequests in the will were made on a percentage basis, and with the provision that the principal of the estate is not to be divided until the youngest living son of Thurlow Weed Barnes, son of the decendent reaches the age of 40.

Thurlow Weed Barnes of 33 Winn st., Belmont, Mass., was left 20 per cent of the estate; his three sons—William, Thurlow Weed, Jr., and Charles G., grandsons of William Barnes—each were left 10 per cent, and 10 per cent each was left to Landon Barnes, Nantucket Island, Mass., son of the decedent; Clifford B. Fiero, brother of the late Mrs. Barnes, now at a sanitorium in Switzerland; Harriet McClosky of Upland, Calif., sister of the late Mrs. Barnes, and Emerson McCloskey, her son, also of Upland.

Frank L. Wiswall and Ellis J. Staley, Albany, N. Y., were named executors and left 5 per cent apiece of the estate in lieu of further commissions.

Until Thurlow Weed Barnes' youngest son reaches the age of 40, the entire estate will be held in trust and only the interest will be divided.

SANDE HURT IN AUTO CRASH

New York, July 2—Fate of late seems to be bucking the successful comeback of Earl Sande, one of the most popular jockeys the American turf has ever known. Sande, yesterday, narrowly escaped death or serious injury when an axle broke and a front wheel of his automobile rolled 100 yards into a parked limousine in the driveway to the Aqueduct stables.

Sande, who was badly cut in the face in an automobile accident two days before the running of the Belmont, nevertheless rode Gallant Fox to victory in that important stake.

3 Hub Men in Car With Gunman Held

Stamford, Ct., July 2 (AP)—Four men were held here today on charges of carrying concealed weapons while their finger-prints were checked in New York to determine if they are wanted there. They were arrested here last night as they drove through in an automobile. A loaded pistol was found in the seat behind Felix Vitagliano, 36, of 1690 Broadway, New York, driver of the car.

The other three gave their names as Buster Albert, 28, of Chelsea st., East Boston, Mass.; Carmine Capona, 30, of Auburn st., Medford, Mass., and Vigneent DiPaola, 28 of Shirley st., Roxbury, Mass.

VETS' PENSION COMPROMISE FORECAST

House Republicans Move to Speed Adjournment and Hope to Avert Veto

Washington, July 2 (INS)—Republican leaders of the House today indicated their willingness to effect a compromise with the Senate on the World War veterans pension bill, chief obstacle to early adjournment.

The bill will be sent to conference with the Senate today under a plan adopted at a meeting of House leaders in the office of Speaker Longworth.

"Sending the measure to conference assures a bill," said Representative Tilson of Connecticut, Republican floor leader.

HOPE TO AVERT VETO.

It was said the bill would be so revamped as to avert a veto by President Hoover.

Before passing the bill, the Senate wrote into it two provisions condemned in advance by the President. One increases the proposed rates to range from $10 to $60 a month, as compared with the President's maximum rate of $40. The other admitted to the pension lists all veterans disabled by their own wilful misconduct during war service.

SPONSORED BY WALSH

The increased rates amendment was sponsored by Senators Walsh of Massachusetts and Connally of Texas, both Democrats. The vote for it was 37 to 26. The bill itself was approved subsequently, 56 to 11.

The cost of the measure was estimated as averaging $160,000,000 annually for the next five years.

The chief provisions would pay $100 a month to totally permanently disabled veterans injured in wartime service. If the veteran lost both eyes the rate would be $150 a month, and if he lost a limb in addition, the maximum would be $200 a month.

If disabled in peace time or by his own wilful misconduct during the war, the veteran would receive $10 to $30 a month. In serious cases, such as blindness, or paralysis, the veteran would be hospitalized in addition to receiving a pension.

FAIR FOURTH IS PROMISED HUB

Looking a bit farther into the future than usual, the Hub weather man today predicted a fair Fourth of July, and not too hot.

Northwesterly winds are in the offing for the last half of the week and the promised cool spell seemed today to be already here, with the temperatures somewhat lower than yesterday.

The forecast for Boston and vicinity: Fair tonight, Thursday and Friday; cooler tonight; moderate northwest winds.

Ships at Sea to Seek Missing Runyon Boat

New York, July 2 (INS)—Ships at sea were asked today to watch for the auxiliary yawl Tanager, which left New London, Ct., June 22 in the annual 650-mile race to Bermuda. The Tanager is five days overdue.

She is owned by Paul M. Runyon of Edgartown, Mass., and aboard with him were Ralph C. Rankin of New York, two other friends and a seaman, Mrs. Runyon and Mrs. Rankin are in Bermuda.

Racketeer Slain in New York Gang War

New York, July 1 (AP)—What police described as competition among racketeers tonight led to the slaying of Giuseppe Micello 33.

Micello's body was riddled with bullets fired by a man who leaped from an auto and ran to meet his victim. The slayer then returned to the car and escaped. Micello was an associate, police said, of Frankie Yale, slain Brooklyn racketeer.

Ex-President Siles Is Sent Into Exile

Buenos Aires, July 2 (AP)—A La Paz dispatch to La Nacion today said Dr. Hernando Siles resigned President of Bolivia, left the capital yesterday for Huaqui, Lake Titicaca Port, where he will take a boat to Peru. He will remain in exile there.

Consent of the new government to his exile was made after it had been ascertained that his health was in precarious state.

ELEVEN MEN INDICTED IN HUGE MIDWEST RUM RUNNING PLOT

GRAND JURY IN ACTION AT CLEVELAND

Great Fleets of Trucks and Boats Used in Widespread Operations, Is Charged

Cleveland, July 2 (AP)—An alleged rum-running syndicate that operated an overland route from Florida and a fleet of boats across Lake Erie to distribute liquor in Middle-western cities was revealed yesterday by release of secret federal indictments naming 11 men on conspiracy charges.

Principals, federal investigators said, were Daniel F. Coughlin of Pittsburgh and Cleveland, who surrendered and was held in $7500, James Courtney, now in Canada, and John O'Boyle of Cleveland.

The organization formerly was alleged to have been headed by "Handsome Larry" Davidson, now in Atlanta penitentiary.

The syndicate, it is charged, operated a fleet of truck from Fernandina, Fla., to McKeesport, Pa., where liquors were reshipped to Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Chicago and Woodlawn, Pa. Its other arm reached across Lake Erie between Canadian ports and points along the Erie (Ohio) county shore.

Headquarters were in Cleveland, with cutaway directing operations along long distance telephone, it is charged.

Protests Loesch Attack on Jews and Italians

Washington, July 2—Declaring that Frank J. Loesch of the Wickersham law enforcement commission had leveled a vicious slander upon Jews and Italians, Rep. Emanuel Celler (D.) of New York has demanded that Loesch resign.

Celler quoted Loesch as saying at the University of Iowa Monday:

"The real Americans are not gangsters. Recent immigrants and the first generation of Jews and Italians are chief offenders, with the Jews furnishing the brains and the Italians the brawn."

Detroit Education Head Urges Dry Law Repeal

Detroit, Mich., July 2—In his inaugural address, Dr. Frank J. Hecky, newly-elected president of the board of education, demands repeal of the Volstead Act "for the benefit of our children."

"Prohibition is making snoopers and snakes of our young," Dr. Shurly declared. "It must not only be repealed, but repealed speedily to save them from serious harm."

30,000 U. S. Bar Members Asked for Dry Law Views

New York, July 2—A letter urging the 30,000 members of the American Bar Association to express their views on prohibition, is today being mailed to each member by the voluntary committee of lawyers. The letter says:

"The Bar Associations of Philadelphia, New York, Boston, San Francisco, St. Louis, Detroit, New Jersey and Nevada, among others, already have declared the Eighteenth Amendment an over extension of federal powers and have urged its repeal."

Coudert Fails to Free Man Seized in Club Raid

New York, July 2 (AP)—The contention that possession of liquor is in itself not unlawful was argued before a United States commissioner here by Atty. Frederic R. Coudert, Sr., for Raymond Ackerman who was arrested in a raid on the Hollywood Restaurant last April.

Commissioner O'Neill ruled that other authorities had held possession of liquor to be prima facie evidence of intent to sell and held Ackerman in $500 bail for trial. Coudert said he was prepared to carry his argument to the United States Supreme Court.

Brown-Kinsolving Bridal October 8

New York, July 2 (US)—Those social notables who are fortunate enough to be included on the invitation lists of Mrs. John Nicholas Brown and Mrs. Arthur Kinsolving, might mark down in large red letters on their engagement pads, Wednesday, October 8. For that is the date on which Anne Seddon Kinsolving and John Nicholas Brown, son of Mrs. John Nicholas Brown of Providence and Newport, will repeat their marriage vows.

The ceremony is to be solemnized in St. Paul's, Protestant Episcopal Church in Baltimore.

Plant to Suspend

Woonsocket, R. I., July 2 (AP)—Announcement was made today that the Millville, Mass., plant of the Woonsocket Rubber Company, footwear division of the United States Rubber Company, would close permanently not later than October 1. The plant will close July 12 for the annual vacation period and re-open August 4 with a curtailed force for the purpose of running out stock.

Every Drink She Takes Helps Her Along

FOOD AND DRINK for the endurance plane City of Chicago almost failed today when the motors on the Big Ben got cranky and would not function. Feverish efforts by the "ground Hunters" got things fixed up, however, and soon they were in the sky over the "air Hunters'" plane as photo shows them. That was the 191st contact—a record in itself. Mercy Act on Battlefield Brings Soldier $60,000

Orange, Cal., July 2 (AP)—An act of mercy he performed under hail of machine gun and shell fire lived on in memory, P. E. Bingham learned today, when notified he had inherited one-fifth of a $300,000 estate in France.

Bingham, lieutenant in the 16th Infantry, during the World War, once advanced shoulder to shoulder with a regiment of Poilus.

Noticing a young Frenchman wounded and unable to move, Bingham carried him to a dressing station, learned his name was Renault, wished him good luck and hurried to overtake his company.

News that the French soldier's father had named him an heir was the American's first word of Renault since.

Fokker Arrested for Stunting in Air

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—Anthony H. G. Fokker, airplane designer, was taken into custody today for stunt flying. He admitted he had no pilot's license.

Fokker was so elated at the way the Southern Cross, which he designed, behaved with a heavy load on the take-off that he jumped into a small sport plane and took to the air himself with wings wagging. He gave vent to his enthusiasm by skimming close over hangars, and Dept. of Commerce men were waiting for him when he landed. Fokker does a considerable amount of flying.

Vermont Twister Rips Roof off Barn

St. Johnsbury, Vt., July 2 (AP)—St. Johnsbury Center was recovering today from the effects of a twister which swept past the village yesterday, following the course of the Passumpsic river.

The roof of a barn owned by Luther Brown was ripped off and carried 100 feet and several tons of hay and splinters of wood were scattered over the village.

Blow Pepperell Safe; Get $200

Pepperell, July 2 (AP)—Burglars entered the grain store of George A. Shattuck during the night and after blowing the safe took checks and cash amounting to about $200. Almost two years ago a similar break netted burglars $500.

FLIERS SIGHTED AT CLEVELAND

Cleveland, O., July 2 (AP)—The Southern Cross, on its way from New York to Chicago, passed over the Cleveland airport at 12:22 p. m., Eastern standard time, today, flying about 500 feet high, airport officials announced.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith and his transatlantic crew took off at 7:05 a. m. (E. S. T.) today for Chicago on their way to the Pacific coast. Arrived on the coast will complete circumnavigation of the globe for Kingsford-Smith and his monoplane Southern Cross.

After an overnight stop in Chicago, the fliers will take off for Salt Lake City, flying over Omaha City, Des Moines, Omaha and Cheyenne. A second overnight stop will be made at Salt Lake City and Friday they will continue to Oakland, Cal., from where Kingsford-Smith took off two years ago on his flight to Australia by way of Hawaii.

Maj. Kingsford-Smith Is Honored by Australia

London, July 2 (INS)—Maj. Charles Kingsford-Smith today was promoted to the rank of wing commander in the Royal Australian air force in recognition of his great work in the conquest of the North Atlantic ocean, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Canberra, Australia.

Sees Working Day Four Hours Day

Columbus, O., July 2 (AP)—Joy Elmer Morgan, editor of the Journal of the National Education Association, advises American educators to prepare the public for the time when the average working day will be just four hours long.

Here today to address a departmental meeting of the association's annual convention, Morgan said the rapid rate of replacement of men by machines makes it reasonable to believe that the working week gradually will be shortened.

The function of the educator, he said is to teach the public how to use all the leisure time it will have on its hands. It will mean either a great increase in culture and learning or a deterioration resulting from ill-spent leisure.

Bay State Yacht Safe in Bermuda

The Tanager, which left New London, Conn., June 22 with 41 other yachts was the only entry in the 660-mile race to Bermuda that failed to finish.

Marines Sentenced for Part in Slaying

Toms River, N. J., July 2 (AP)—Claud Carmichael and Madison Chappel, marines at the Lakehurst naval air station, pleaded guilty today to second degree murder in the killing of Robert Evans, and were sentenced to 25 years and 10 years respectively in state prison.

Lester Underdown, another marine, and Mrs. Evans, are under death sentences as the major participants in the crime.

SHOT EX-WIFE AND HIMSELF

Fall River, July 2—In the presence of three other men on one of the busiest corners in the city, May Repsky, 29, of Canal st., fired two bullets into his divorced wife, Josephine Slusak, 29, and then turned the gun on himself today.

The wounded couple were taken to the Fall River General Hospital, where their names were placed on the danger list. They were not expected to live.

The shooting occurred while the former Mrs. Repsky, who had taken her maiden name, was on her way to work in the Cape Cod shirt factory.

As the woman slumped to the sidewalk unconscious, Repsky placed the revolver at his head and fired two more shots, dropping beside his unconscious victim.

The couple, who came from Taunton, were divorced about two years ago. Police were told that Repsky had been attempting to affect a reconciliation with his former wife, but that she had refused or remarry him.

Elinor Smith Booms "Shorts" for Girls

New York, July 2 (US)—Elinor Smith, Long Island's most famous girl aviator, believes in "shorts" for women. What's more, she wears 'em.

STALIN CRITIC MAKES HUMBLE APOLOGY

Moscow, July 2 (AP)—Nikolai Uglanov, the commissar of labor who preached against the policies of Joseph Stalin, strong man of the Soviet, today before the Congress of Stalin's majority party, humbly recanted his accusations and adjured for the second time his right-wing views.

How completely and ignominiously the right wing opposition in the Communist Party had surrendered to Stalin and his central committee was summed up in Uglanov's abject humility.

"I consider," pleaded the one-time power in the Communist ranks, that "one of my greatest mistakes was that in the struggle against the party line I attempted, in conversations with many party members, to represent Stalin as the person chiefly responsible for the situation created within the party.

"Comrade Stalin proved, during his management of the party, that he is deservedly the leader and a firm follower of Lenin. I declare solemnly, here at the 16th congress, that I repudiate and decisively condemn all of my former mistakes and activities."

SUSPEND A COP IN CHICAGO GUN BATTLE

Trolley Motorman Slain in the Fight Between Gangsters and Police

Chicago, July 2 (AP)—An indictment charging Frankie Foster, Chicago gunman under arrest in Los Angeles, with the murder of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, Tribune crime reporter, was returned by the grand jury today.

Chicago, July 2 (AP)—A new burst of gang gunfire blazed in The Loop last night and two gunmen escaped behind a smoke screen after an unsuccessful attempt to assassinate Jake Zuta, reputed lieutenant for the "Bugs" Moran gang, on his way home from the detective bureau with a police escort. The policeman fired several shots but missed the gunmen.

The outbreak of the hoodlums took place on brilliantly lighted State st. in the loop. It cost the life of a street car motorman and wounded another unconcerned spectator struck by wild bullets.

BARKER SUSPENDED

Zuta appears to have been the target of the gangsters' gunplay, but it was considered possible that Zuta himself was an ally of the gunmen, putting his police escort "on the spot." Zuta and three companions disappeared while the policemen and gunmen exchanged shots.

Jake and a dozen other suspected Moran hoodlums had been under arrest in connection with the Lingle slaying. They had obtained their freedom on bonds. Apparently afraid to go home unprotected, Zuta pleaded with Lieutenant George Barker, bureau squad leader who had taken part in the Moran mob roundup, for a safe escort across town.

Lieutenant Barker, criticized by Chief of Detectives Norton for providing an escort for Zuta, was suspended by acting Commissioner of Police John H. Alcock, pending an inquiry.

Among numerous motives advanced for the apparent attack on Zuta was one that gunmen, believing Zuta may have "squawked" about what he knew of the Lingle case, sought to remove him from further connection with the case.

HERO AWARD WINNER

Lieut. Barker is a former United States Marine and was among the winners of the Chicago Tribune hero award, given monthly to the policeman who displays outstanding heroism and bravery in line of duty.

Neither Zuta nor his companions appeared in police court today for their scheduled arraignment on disorderly conduct charges on which they obtained their release last night.

Taken by Death

UNITED FRUIT OFFICIAL DEAD

Death claimed William Newsome, senior vice-president of the United Fruit Co., and one of its founders, at his home, 90 St. Mary's st., Back Bay, yesterday. He was 61.

He was identified with Andrew W. Preston and a small group which formed the United Fruit Co., in 1899. For a time he was head salesman; later he was transferred to Jamaica.

In 1908 he became manager of the West Indies department and in the same year was made a director of the Fruit Dispatch Co., the selling subsidiary, and a few months later a vice-president.

He became president of the subsidiary in 1924, the same year he became senior vice-president of the United Fruit Co., in which he had held directorship since 1911. He resigned the presidency of the Fruit Dispatch Co. in 1925.

In recent years expansion of the United Fruit fleet had occupied his attention almost entirely. Two years ago he went to San Francisco to open the new Pacific coast route.

He was made a Knight of St. Gregory by Pope Pius XI for his work in handling the forces delegates to the Ecumenical convention in Chicago in 1926 and for his part in Norway's shipbuilding program he was knighted in the order of St. Olav by King Haakon VII of Norway.

His widow, a daughter and two grandchildren survive him. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning with a solemn high mass of requiem at St. Aiden's church, Brookline, at 11:30 a. m.

NEW NARCOTIC BUREAU GOING AT TOP SPEED

Sweeping Order Issued to All Agents to Smash the Gigantic Drug Rings

The consolidation of the various federal narcotic enforcement agencies into an independent bureau in the treasury department, as provided in the Porter bill, sponsored by the Hearst newspapers, was made without hitch yesterday.

Harry J Anslinger, appointed as acting commissioner of narcotics, plunged into his work with a sweeping order to all agents to concentrate on smashing the gigantic dope rings which annually flood the United States with millions of dollars worth of illicit drugs. He said:

"We will devote our major efforts to break up the illicit interstate and international traffic in narcotic drugs.

"That's the most important problem facing the government.

"We are asking the states to take over the detection and prosecution of minor offenses. The cases against addicts and one-grain pedlars should be handled in state courts.

"This system will relieve the badly congested federal prisons and reduce the dockets of the federal courts."

Approximately one-third of the federal prisoners today are narcotic offenders. In fighting the rings, Anslinger has enlisted the active co-operation of the customs bureau and the State Department.

The House late yesterday approved the Senate amendments to the Fish bill authorizing the payment of money for information resulting in the seizure of narcotics from abroad. It now goes to the President.

Representative Fish (R.) of New York today will call up his companion bill to deport aliens who violate the narcotic laws.

Authorizes U. S. Awards to Alien Drug Informers

Washington, July 2 (AP)—Payment to foreigners who inform United States officials of efforts to violate the narcotic laws of this country was authorized under a bill which received final congressional approval and was sent to the President.

The measure empowers the bureau of narcotics, recently created by treasury, to pay the informers through an accredited consul or vice-consul.

'Charles Morrow' May Be Name of Lindy, Jr.

Englewood, N. J., July 2 (US)—"Charles Morrow Lindbergh" is probably will be the name of the blue-eyed son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

This rumor was heard in circles close to the Lindbergh and Morrow families last night. If it holds true the baby will bear the names of his famous father and his grandfather, Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow.

Mrs. Lindbergh plans to go to the Morrow summer home at North Haven, Me., with her child as soon as she recovers her strength.

Injured Student Flier Suspended

Ann Arbor, Mich., July 2 (AP)—University of Michigan officials have added discipline to injury for James D. Morton of Douglas, Wyo., first student punished under the rule that prohibits operation of airplanes without permission. He has been suspended for the first semester next year.

He fell into Devil's lake near Adrian, May 31 and suffered fractures of several ribs and other injuries.

Demands Reward for Salvaging Ship

New Haven, July 2 (INS)—William H. Todd, of New York, today filed a libel against the sloop Lord Cro, salvaged by the yacht Saelmo in Long Island Sound. Todd, as owner of the Saelmo, of New York, declared he is "entitled to a liberal salvage reward."

The Lord Cro was abandoned by its crew in a storm and its crew were taken aboard the steamer Boston and taken to Boston.

Slash Travel Rates on Graf Zeppelin

Friedrichshafen, Germany, July 2 (INS)—Announcement of a 40 per cut in passenger rates aboard the Graf Zeppelin was made here today. The reduction was made because of the small number of passengers booking for flights thus far.

The rate for the Graf's forthcoming 50-hour trip to the British Isles will be 1330 marks (about $337), it was announced.

FARMERS GAIN FROM TARIFF, SAYS HYDE

Washington, July 2 (INS)—The new tariff bill will serve to hold the home market for the American producer and add to the economic urge to agriculture to balance its production against the market demand, Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde declared today in a radio address broadcast over a wide network.

"For agriculture, the tariff act of 1930 will be a distinct gain," he said. "Actually and potentially it increases tariff protection for American farmers. Many of its rates, such as those on wool, long staple cotton and dairy products will be generally beneficial. Others will be of maximum assistance in border markets and under favorable market conditions.

"The new act reduces the disparity in tariff protection which has heretofore existed between agricultural products and industrial products.

Poincare Attacks U. S. Tariff Parley

Paris, July 2 (AP)—Americans of 22 countries gathered with Frenchmen to celebrate the France-America committee's week of American nations, last night heard Raymond Poincare, former President and former Premier, take the United States to task for its new tariff law.

M. Poincare said:

"There is a crisis in the friendship of the two nations which, if it is not remedied, will grow worse. Countries that try to antagonize other peoples will find that they are attached to those other peoples by bonds they cannot break."

Says U. S. Cars Can't Be Sold in Italy

Rome, July 2 (INS)—"American automobile sales in Italy, which have lately been increasing, will be shut off," a statement issued at the General Motors Corporation agency here today said in commenting on the new retaliatory duties imposed by the Italian government.

The government increased the duties on American automobiles imported into Italy from 100 to 600 per cent.

HUB TEACHERS TO VISIT ERIN

Among the many Bostonians who will board the Cedric on Sunday for a summer vacation abroad and to further their education at the National University, in Dublin, Ireland, will be two Boston school teachers.

They are Miss Rufina McCarthy, daughter of Denis A. McCarthy, LL. D., and Miss Julia L. Corcoran, both teachers in the Boston public schools. Miss McCarthy is an instructor in English at the Washington school.

Rufina McCarthy

On their arrival in the Irish Free State, the two teachers will be greeted by Dr. Eoin MacNeill, president of Dublin University, and a brother of the governor-general of Irish Free State.

This will be Miss McCarthy's second trip to Ireland. After the jubilee trip to Rome under the auspices of Cardinal O'Connell, Miss McCarthy visited the country of her ancestors and on her return to Boston wrote a booklet, "Why Go to Ireland?" which won much favorable comment.

PRISON LABOR ACT DEBATED

Salt Lake City, July 2 (AP)—Consideration of the Hawes-Cooper act restricting transportation of prison made goods in interstate commerce occupied attention of the National Governors' conference in its final business session today.

To Governor Henry S. Caulfield of Missouri was assigned the task of presenting the situation which he conceived would arise when the measure becomes effective. W. J. Holloway was designated to lead a round table discussion on the law.

Methods of utilizing prison labor in meeting penitentiary problems, as proposed by the Eastern-Southern Conference of Institutional Labor, were laid before the conference by Governor William G. Conley of West Virginia.

Mexicans Ask War on Millions of Rats

Mexico City, July 2 (AP)—The Department of Agriculture today was asked by a delegation from Michoacan and Jalisco for aid in combating a rat plague.

The delegates said millions of rats are overrunning 200,000 hectares of land, ruining crops and killing stock.

ARREST 110 IN GERMAN RIOTS

Berlin, July 2 (AP)—Fascists and Communists provided a lively windup early today for the festivities in several towns that marked evacuation of the Rhineland.

The capital was awakened by roars of "Germany, Wake Up," from groups of Fascists roaming the streets. Police wielded their sticks, and took 40 offenders to police stations.

At Neumuenster a clash between Fascists and Communists resulted in the shooting of two.

At Annaburg, seven persons were injured with knives and rocks. Fighting raged in the streets and the police were given severe resistance.

Annapolis Boy Ends Life

Paris, July 2 (UB)—Midshipman Francis H. Worthington, 19, a third class man at Annapolis visiting Europe on the class cruise aboard the U. S. S. Utah, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself in the head.

PLAN FLIGHT TO PARIS AUG. 1

Newark, N. J., July 2 (INS)—W. S. MacLaren, instructor for the Newark Air Service, today announced that he will hop off for Paris on August 1. If he makes Paris, MacLaren plans to fly back to the United States.

The flyer said he expected to break the 33½-hour transatlantic record of Charles Lindbergh by about three hours.

MacLaren plans a route longer than Lindbergh's, flying by way of Bermuda and the Azores.

Finds Cure for Disease in Ordinary Light Bulb

Ithaca, N. Y., July 2 (AP)—Ultra-violet light from ordinary-size house electric bulbs is curing disease at Cornell University.

The Cornell experiment clarifies a prediction that even in the small amounts of ultra-violet produced by ordinary tungsten filaments there is sufficient for health, without risk of over-exposure.

At Cornell, Dr. George H. Maughan has been raising chickens under glass which does not transmit ultra-violet. Without exception these chickens failed to grow more than half size and finally died of rickets unless given special care.

In adjoining pens were other chickens raised the same way in every detail except one. The single difference was one small electric light of glass that transmits ultra-violet. Without exception these chickens developed in full health.

More remarkable still was curing of chickens with rickets simply by keeping them under one of those small bulbs of the special glass only 20 minutes a day. The big thing in ultra-violet, says Mr. Maughan, has scarcely been touched. That is its possibilities for prevention of disease. Thus far it has been used mostly after illness started.

In a workman it's Skill

in a cigarette it's Taste

BACK OF TRUE CRAFTSMANSHIP—patient training, painstaking pride. Back of Chesterfield's popularity—years of experience in the buying and blending of fine tobaccos and one unchanging standard of excellence.

UNFAILING GOOD TASTE, the result of quality tobaccos, skilful blending, endless care — that's what wins smokers to Chesterfield — and holds them.

LIGHT A CHESTERFIELD for the first time or the fifty-first, and enjoy afresh the discovery that here, at last, is a cigarette made to your own liking . . . mild, rich, fragrant — first in the one thing you want most . . . "TASTE above everything".

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield cigarettes are of finer quality and hence of better taste than in any other cigarette at the price.

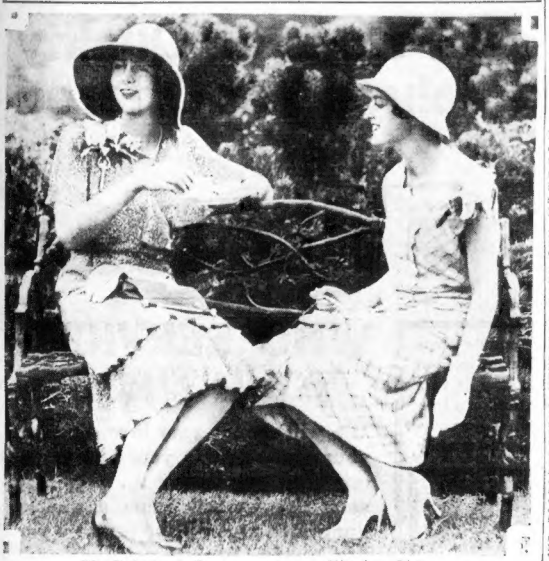
To Make Debut During Coming Season



Miss Katherine L. Burrage

MISS KATHERINE L. BURRAGE, daughter of Mrs. Russell Burrage of Beacon st., and Beverly Farms, will be presented to society at a ball on December 12. Miss Burrage and

Miss Anne Dick

Miss Anne Dick, daughter of Mrs. Evans Dick, Jr., also a debutante of the coming season, were snapped enjoying tea in the garden of a friend.

North Shore Folk Invited to Dance at Magnolia

TOMORROW NIGHT AT the Beach Club, Magnolia, Mr. and Mrs. Talbot Chase (Francis Bradley) and Mr. and Mrs. Thompson Sampson, of Farmington, Ct., are celebrating the night before the Fourth with a dance for their friends along the shore. The Sampsons have as their house guests Mr. and Mrs. Harold McNeil and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Irving Badger are weekending with the Chases.

THERE WILL BE ABOUT 50 invited guests at the dance and if the night is perfect there could be no more attractive spot than the Magnolia Casino on the shores of the sea. Mrs. Chase will wear a black chiffon gown splashed with yellow flowers in modernistic design and Mrs. Sampson will appear in white crepe de chine. The ballroom will be hung with Japanese lanterns.

AMONG THE INVITED guests are Mr. and Mrs. John Simpkins (Miriam Fenno), Mr. and Mrs. Howland Seabury (Rosamond Johnson), Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Stevens (Isabel Coolidge), Mr. and Mrs. Lyon Weyburn, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Coolidge, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. Harmon from Cincinnati, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Plimpton, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Exton, Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Burnett, and many other friends from various places along the North Shore.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES M. TODD, of Manchester, are having a large dinner party before the dance for the Chases, and their guests, and Mr. and Mrs. Sampson and their guests, as well as Messrs. and Mesdames Simpkins, Burnett, Coolidge, Houghton Cox, George Henderson and Nelson Curtis, the entire party going later to the dance.

Interesting Notes of Prominent Folk in North Shore Circles

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD D. SEAMANS of Salem are occupying their house at New London, N. H., for the month of July. Mr. and Mrs. Francis Tuckerman Parker were guests at the Seamans' home over the last weekend, Mrs. Parker remaining for part of the week.

MRS. RODMAN A. NICHOLS and Mrs. John T. Whitmore of Salem have been quite busy with their attractive tea room and gift shop, The Riding Light, on Marblehead Neck, on the site of the old postoffice which was burned down. Mrs. Whitmore is also in charge of the postoffice this summer.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE HALL BURNETT of Marlborough st. and Southboro sailed on Monday for Europe on the City of Paris. They will return about the middle of August.

MRS. WILLIAM H. COOLIDGE, JR., was seen riding along the beach road with her young daughter, Miss Eleanor, this week. Mrs. Coolidge is one of the prominent young matrons who is interested in the North Shore Babies' Hospital. Her small son, Teddy, has been a patient there for the past two weeks and we are pleased to know that he is recovering from a serious illness. The North Shore Babies' Hospital fills a need in the community and is growing very fast, as it keeps in touch with the latest methods of baby care.

Committe Is Named for Sophie Braslau Concert Next Fall

MRS. WILLIS S. SHEPARD of Mt. Vernon st., Boston, and Ponkapoag, is a member of the committee arranging for the concert to be given by Miss Sophie Braslau on the afternoon of October 21 in the Hotel Statler ballroom. A large and brilliant gathering of Boston music lovers is expected for Miss Braslau won many admirers through her concerts in the Wednesday morning musicales in the 1928 season. Miss Breslau's only appearance will be for the benefit of the New England Home for Little Wanderers. Other members of the committee are Mr. Borden Covel, Arthur S. Johnson, Mrs. William Ames, Mrs. Chilton R. Cabot, Mrs. Albert P. Everts, Samuel D. Parker, Mrs. James W. Rollins and Mrs. Richard D. Sears.

AMONG THE EVENTS scheduled at Newport for the coming week is the opening of the Casino Symphony Concerts, the annual bake for members of the Clambake Club and election of officers, and the tea, concert and reception which the Casino governors will give on Saturday night.

MRS. WILLIAM H. VANDERBILT is chairman of the committee in charge of the Republican Club bridge on Monday at Newport. Assisting her will be her mother-in-law, Mrs. Paul F. Sr. Simmons, who is president of the club, Mrs. Snowden A. Fahnestock, Mrs. Michael M. van Buren, Mrs. Charles M. Bull and Miss Maude Wetmore.

New Submarine in Commission

Mare Island, Cal., July 2 (AP)—The submarine V-8, launched March 15, was commissioned yesterday, with ceremonies conducted by G. W. Laws, commandant of Mare Island. Commander T. J. Boyle assumed command of the vessel.

Smoot Bridal in Temple

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 2 (US)—On the heels of the announcement of his engagement to wed Mrs. Alice Taylor Sheets, 53, came another from Reed Smoot, 68, senior United States Senator from Utah, that the wedding will take place today in the Salt Lake temple of the Mormon church.

Herbert J. Grant, president of the church, is to perform the ceremony. Ceremonies within the temple are ritualistic and in a sense, secret, though of course witnessed by church officials and a few friends. Aside from the religious significance, such weddings are somewhat in the nature of a "church wedding" in other denominations.

Senator Smoot, besides being chairman of the powerful finance committee of the Senate, ranks next to the president of the quorum of 12 apostles, and should that president die before Senator Smoot, the latter will become the president of the quorum. When the presidency of the church becomes vacant—which up to the present has only been by the death of the occupant—the president of the quorum of apostles succeeds. Thus Senator Smoot ranks next to the "heir apparent" in the leadership of the Mormon church.

There will be no elaborate social function, it is announced, such as commonly follows a wedding in the Mormon Temple.

Adequately Equipped Homes Urged by Club Federation Organ

In stressing the necessity of leisure time, Mrs. John D. Sherman, chairman of the department of the American Home of the General Federation, will again in the fall urge adequately equipped homes that the homemaker might be relieved from needless labors, with more leisure time to devote to the ethical, moral and spiritual needs of herself and her family.

The General Federation through its official organ, the News, recently sponsored a series of explanatory articles on electrical and labor-saving devices with solicitous request that clubwomen of the country afford themselves of their advantages.

If woman is to promote that cultural side of herself offered by club activities she must have the leisure to avail herself of such self-development. Hence Mrs. Sherman repeats the need of re-creating energies and relaxing in spare hours at home.

"The home-maker can only continue to hold her place in the social life of the grown-up family as she makes her own contribution to its interests," Mrs. Sherman says.

Legislative Bills to Be Studied

Clubs of Seventh and Eighth Districts Plan for Conference

By NANCY BREWSTER

In a first attempt at an all-day legislative conference, the seventh and eighth districts will this year combine to bring to the women of 43 clubs the pending legislative bills endorsed for study by the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs.

The Woman's Club of the East Boston School Center will be hostess for the session scheduled for December 30.

Mrs. Nathaniel E. Smith, seventh district director, in announcing the dates of her district, states that this is the first time an all-day session will be presented to the clubwomen. A half-day legislative conference last year proved so interesting and valuable that it was deemed advisable, she added, to extend the hours that the women might be informed at greater length of those measures concerning the welfare of city and state.

PRESIDENTS TO MEET

A get-together for the presidents of the district will be held again this year, probably in September, at Mrs. Smith's home. Extended to club executives by their director, it serves as an expedient means of surveying the entire district, its essential activities, its progress and its development. Playing hostess to the 25 club officials not only aids the presidents but helps the director in mapping out the federation policy and how best to get it across.

The department conference of the seventh district will be held November 14 with the Somerville Women's Club as hostess.

In lauding the success of her district, Mrs. Smith pointed out that up until the annual meeting in Swampscott last May, the seventh district came nearest to 100 per cent in its contribution to the Foundation Fund of the General Federation. All but one club have given funds to the parent organization for the decentralization of this club movement.

ON WLOE TONIGHT

The radio repeal series sponsored by the Liberal Civic League, of which Conrad Crooker is general counsel and William Mitchell, chairman, will be heard tonight over station WLOE at 7:30. Mrs. William Lovell Putnam of Beacon st., president of the Coolidge Women's Club and the only woman ever to preside over an electoral college, will be the speaker.

Recently Mrs. Coolidge declared prohibition to be a farce, adding that as far as she knew she was the only woman in her set who wouldn't employ a bootlegger.

W. C. T. U. Workers To Honor Birth of Dorchester Woman

Women's Christian Temperance workers throughout the world will on Friday honor the 126th anniversary of the birth of Mrs. Mary H. Hunt, a Massachusetts woman, a native of Dorchester and a temperance pioneer. Her educational instruction swept the country between 1880 and 1900.

She died in 1906, but not before she witnessed the fruits of her many years of campaigning for temperance, effected by legislation, nationally and by states. Mrs. Hunt was one of the first W. C. T. U. members, a co-worker with Frances Willard. She fought hard for the enactment of legislation requiring the teaching in public schools of the facts concerning alcohol and the human system. Part of the W. C. T. U. program, when it was organized in 1873, was a plan to educate children against liquor.

Indiana Club Offers Idea to Swell Funds For Building Purposes

If the co-operation of a local merchant can be obtained and his willingness, particularly to function in this idea, the following is an able suggestion, coming from the Woman's Department Club of Terra Haute, Ind. The store head inaugurated a dollar day and employed 25 clubwomen as clerks, paying them the usual saleswoman's salary, which in turn was turned over to the building fund of the club.

Since the details of the plan centered about the inducement of women in saving up their shopping needs against the club day, a goodly sum was netted. Mr. Merchant might profit by the day as well. At any rate it establishes the necessary contact between store and club women.

Small, Sleek Chapeau Bares Meaning of 'Chic'

SMALL HAT WITH charm built of panamalac and an offering from Margot Fleury. Two tones of straw are used. (Sketched in Paris.)

From Paris Bureau, Boston Evening American.

Paris, July 2.

IF YOU WEAR a small, chic hat during the day and a fascinating brimmed model at night, you are surely headed for millinery success. For despite the apparent popularity of the large hat, we find that the sleek small chapeau is the choice of women who have discovered the hidden meaning of the word "chic."

The little hats shown just now are going very big, particularly the little hand-knit jersey models that the clever Agnes does so well. Ever so many smart women have ordered several of these caps in divers colors for both town and country wear, for they are comfortable, cool and good-looking in a nonchalant kind of way.

A shining success in the millinery world is, of course, panamalac, and it is a straw that is as much liked for small models as for those of more imposing dimensions. And so you see that it is an easy and a pleasant search for making the most of one's good points and skillfully minimizing any defects. And that, after all, should be the function of a hat.

It always has seemed strange to observers of the mode to watch women cheerfully choosing hats that should have no part in the be-kind-to-your-face movement to which more vendeuses and clients ought to subscribe.

We are showing two sketches of models that represent the last word in small hats of distinction and charm. The first is a creation by Margot Fleury, who is building quite a following. The hat is built entirely of panamalac, cleverly combined with the same weave in white.

The two tones of straw are also utilized to fashion the small tailored bow that trims the front of the toque. The full draping at the sides is very deftly done, for it is drawn back from the face even while softening the silhouette in a manner that is most becoming.

The other sketch depicts one of Agnes' hand-knit models. It is of fine wool in a bright royal blue. The soft brim turns back from the forehead over a matching velvet ribbon band, which ties at the nape of the neck.

Plan Fete in Hyde Park

Hyde Park's joint tercentenary and Fourth of July program opens tomorrow with a field day, band concert and fireworks display at Smith Field under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus.

All civic, fraternal, patriotic, military and trade organizations in the district will have representatives in the parade, scheduled to start Friday's program at 9 a. m. Patriotic exercises with Governor Allen and Mayor Curley as principal speakers will follow.

In the afternoon a sports program will be held at each of the local playgrounds. Free ice cream will be distributed to children under the direction of Representative Joseph A. Logan.

The two-day celebration will be concluded with another fireworks display at Smith Field and a lawn party on the parish grounds under the auspices of St. Adelbert's Church.

NOVEL PLANE ARRIVES AT AIRPORT

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

Arriving from New York in slightly more than two hours flying time, F. H. Spencer, factory sales manager for Ireland Aircraft Corp., landed at Boston Airport with his Ireland Privateer amphibian.

The ship, a two-place, side-by-side amphibian, created a furore among the airport attaches, and Spencer was kept busy explaining the features of the craft and taking the boys for joy rides.

The ship is the first of its kind to land at the airport here, and Spencer expects to line up a local company to serve as dealers for the job. Technically, the Privateer is a monoplane, with a 100-horsepower Warner engine mounted as a pusher, and suspended above the hull by struts. The tail section is connected to the hull by means of steel tubing.

Both pilot and passenger sit in front of the wing, which is mounted directly to the top of the hull. Wing tips pontoons are suspended at the very ends of the wings. Carrying gasoline for four hours' cruising, the plane speeds along at 85 miles an hour, with a top speed of slightly over 100.

Crocker Snow, president of Skyways, and Spencer hopped to the Cape for the night, landing on the lake in back of Skyways summer flying camp at Marston's Mills.

Spencer was formerly sales manager for Curtiss-Wright in New England, and at one time held New England's only world's record, that for altitude for planes equipped with the war time OX-5 motor.

The Weather

PORT OF BOSTON NEWS

By CARL MORRISON

The latest chapter in the Army Base terminal situation came last night, and served to clear up one important angle to this unsettled afair.

U. S. Senator David I. Walsh, who was reported to have been aligned with the group operating the terminal, has sent a telegram making his own position clear.

The wire was to Jerry Spinale, manager of a chain of waterfront restaurants who complained to Senator Walsh of an allegedly unjust boosting of his rent at the base.

Sen. Walsh telegraphed:

"Telegram received. I have no interest whatever in retaining present lessees at Army base terminal, if there is any evidence that they are not operating in the public interest. I originally became interested in Hurley only because he was the highest bidder. The rental reduction WAS NOT OBTAINED THROUGH MY INFLUENCE."

The reference to the rental reduction is that the Shipping Board granted a reduction of $15,000 a year to the terminal operators, which reduction is under fire.

The telegram which drew forth Senator Walsh's positive stand was:

"Have appealed to Mayor Curley to order a city investigation of alleged injustices to myself and others at Army Base Terminal because of participation of one of his city assessors in terminal management. Repeated appeals to Shipping Board have been fruitless, so am asking your help in obtaining an impartial investigation. I am sure you will intervene, despite persistent local reports that you are still aligned with Murphy interests. Inasmuch as you obtained a fifteen thousand dollar rental reduction for them, it is only fair that you should help me in my fight against the unwarranted doubling of my rent by Murphy. Citizens of Boston are beginning to demand a thorough investigation of the entire situation and want to know your position."

MODERN MARINER'S DIARY

Our "Modern Mariner" has two items to report today:

"Went over to Army Base to investigate conditions there but was distracted by the sight of several longshoremen working in bathing suits because of the heat.

"Went to Commonwealth Pier and learned that the boys on the upper level are all worked up over something. Their lunch carts which used to bring soft drinks, sandwiches and other refreshments, have been banned. If they want a bite, they must go below and use the 20 minutes, which stevedores properly refuse to allow. Then, too, the lunch cart men often trusted the boys till pay day."

TODAY'S WHO'S WHO

H. H. Foster

Foster has charge of the ports of Boston, Providence, Fall River and Portland, as well as a new one to be opened in Rockport, Me., where company vessels will commence to carry fuel oil for the new paper mill. He directs Eastern operations, ranging from transporting to maintenance.

For many years Foster was chief engineer on freight and passenger vessels. He is a member of the Maritime Association and of the Engineers Club. He is interested in helping young men become deck officers or engineers, and his hobbies are motoring on land and sea.

CLUB OUTING

After a little bit of Sherlocking, we obtained the list of winners of some of the events at the outing of the Foreign Commerce Club. Under the hard working direction of Capt. Hindon and Joe Clark, the party was a big success.

The winners include:

Pipe and tobacco race, Thomas H. Sanlon, first; George J. Brooks, second; 50-yard dash, Walter Gleason; three-legged race, Bernie Costello and Russell Rae; jump rope for women, first heat, Miss Mitchell, first and Miss Graziani, second; second heat, same event, Miss Davis and Miss Laffee.

Finals in jump rope contest: Miss Mitchell, Miss Laffee and Miss Davis.

Relay races: First, Miss O'Neill and Walter McCoubrey; second, Miss Ann Feely and Mr. Fanning.

Columbus Manuscript to Be Shown in Hub

Editor Boston American:

That manuscript on the life and voyages of Columbus over four centuries old that has recently been brought over to this country by Dr. Abraham W. Rosenbach, will be on exhibition here if arrangements to that effect can be carried through.

It is hoped that this manuscript will clear up the notion that this discoverer died in extreme poverty. Other notions may be cleared up; that he possessed considerable wealth at the time of, his death at Valladolid in 1506; that he was of Hebrew origin, its book being written on this subject seven years ago, and that his real name was not Columbus, the Latin name for dove. Anyway, he was neglected by the court during his lifetime. This hastened his death.

Give Hub Teachers Personal Freedom

Editor Boston American:

We all need personal freedom in some shape or another. Teachers should have it. We yap after freedom because it is the only thing we have at times.

If teachers have to live where school committees dictate this in my opinion is none of their business, provided they are always on hand for their special duties.

If the population of Boston is not increasing, as was expected, this is not the reason to ask nonresident teachers of Boston to return to the cover of the Hub. They would do something to swell the population. But even then, it would not get its million mark.

Some of us are crying for personal freedom as an argument against prohibition. This is a pretty sound argument, in my opinion. Some of those who want the teachers to return and live in the Hub deny to the teachers what they themselves demand when you talk prohibition with them.

They want personal freedom. Let them have it, I say. But why limit it there. Give it a wider application.

How Hobo Jack Put $200 in a Poor Box

Editor Boston American:

After spending part of my vacation out in California, I ran across an item about poor boxes that I thought would interest your readers. Just before leaving for the Pacific coast, I read in your paper about a poor box being robbed and probably would not have thought about it, had not this event come across my mind at Gilroy, Cal.

It was just in front of St. Stephen's Church in that town. The box stands in a conspicuous place. Recently in that box a sheet of paper wrapped around some bills was discovered. This was the pencilled note inside: "Kindly accept this $200 for the little red church at the cross roads from Hobo Jack." This so impressed me that upon my return East, I thought your readers would like to hear a good word about one poor box.

Says War Vets Should Demand Full Payment

Editor Boston American:

I heartily agree with John J. Blake of Dorchester in his article of June 27 under heading: "Urges Pensions for All World War Veterans."

I am a World War veteran, but not disabled in any way. I am glad the government has taken care of the wounded and disabled in its present veterans legislation.

But where do the rest of the veterans fit? The government gave each veteran an adjusted service certificate to mature in 1945. The way it stands now, the government has 70 per cent of these certificates back as security for money loaned the veterans each year.

By the time 1945 arrives, the veteran will find himself with nothing but old age. Let the veterans demand these certificates be paid in full at once; it is for a just cause.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

Keep their children from being injured by fireworks on the Fourth!

No matter is more urgent than this. It strikes home in my family where one of the members was rendered blind by the careless use of fireworks on the part of another who was trying to set them off.

Children are curious. Their curiosity leads them astray in this matter. They want to see everything. To make a big noise plays a prominent part in their interests of the Fourth of July.

Have safe fireworks, crackers and everything else. Caution is absolutely necessary. Give them fireworks to set off that they can use without fear of permanent injury. A mere burn is nothing to compare with losing your eyesight. Don't forget the play of children on the Fourth!

Turns to Poetry for the Tercentenary

Editor Boston American:

I should like to see these few lines printed in the Evening American:

1630—TERCENTENARY—1930

Turn backward New England to days of yore—
Remember the Pilgrims
Came first to thy shore—
Enduring many hardships
Never ceasing in their toil
To make a home for freedom on New England's rugged soil—
Neath thy sun was freedom born
And spread from shore to shore
Religious liberty to one and all
You and I evermore.

Tuskegee Principal Lists Lynchings

Editor Boston American:

Dear Sir:

I send you the following information concerning lynchings for the first six months of this year. I find, according to the records compiled at Tuskegee Institute in the department of records and research, that in the first six months of 1930 there were nine lynchings. This number is five more than the number four for the first six months of 1929; four more than the number five for the first six months of 1928, and is the same as the number nine for the first six months of each of the years 1925, 1926 and 1927; it is four more than the number five for the first six months of 1924; six less than the number 15 for the first six months of 1923; 21 less than the number 30 for the first six months of 1922, and 27 less than the number 36 for the first six months of 1921.

Of the persons lynched, one was white and eight were Negroes. The offenses charged were rape, five; murder, one; bombing house, 1; slaying landlord in altercation over debt, one; attempted rape, one.

The states in which lynchings occurred and the number in each state are as follows: Florida, one; Georgia, one; Mississippi, one; Oklahoma, one; South Carolina, two; Texas, three.

ROBERT R. MOTON,
Principal.

ZIONISTS UNITE AFTER 9 YEARS

Cleveland, O., July 2 (AP)—American Zionists, divided by a split in their organization in 1921, ended their differences at the closing session of the 23d annual convention of the Zionist Organization of America and elected an administration representing the present and preceding administrations.

An administrative committee of 18 was named to succeed the present directing heads, of whom Louis Lipsky had been president for nine years since retirement of Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis, upon defeat of his policies. Lipsky submitted his resignation at the start of this convention.

Supporters of Justice Brandeis and Judge Julian W. Mack, leaders in the previous administration, are in the ascendency in the new leadership, having 12 representatives on the administrative committee against six from the present administration forces.

Miami Officers Quit Over Capone Gift

Miami, Fla., July 2 (AP)—The president and several directors of the Miami Civic Tourist Club resigned at a meeting last night after the club refused to return a donation of $2500 made by Al Capone. The donation had been solicited from the Chicago gang leader, according to Clyde A. Epperson, the resigning president.

'No Geography in Fashion,' National Authority Says

"There's no geography to the present interest in fashion. Readers of newspapers are interested in fashion whether they live in Iowa or Illinois, in New England or California," says Amos Parrish, foremost fashion authority, whose articles on "What's in Fashion?" will appear in the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser starting Monday, July 7, 1930.

"Newspapers everywhere are recognizing the importance of fashion news and fashion notes. The interest on the part of the public is in knowing what's in fashion. That's why we are preparing these articles—reporting what's in fashion—fashion trends and fashion changes.

"To say that a thing is no longer in fashion is to say it's out of date. Out of fashion means out of date. Out of step with modern life.

"People now want fashions in pots and pans, in furniture and draperies, in rugs and linoleums, in automobiles, in entertainments, as well as in clothing and necessaries. That's why fashion has become all-important in modern life—and not only the life of the 400, but of the millions.

"What's in Fashion?" articles will report fashion news and fashion facts of everyday interest. The articles are based on fashion analysis methods that have been developed and introduced in leading stores by the fashion organization of Amos Parrish & Co. The articles will cover fashions in apparel and accessories, furniture and home furnishings.

In the first article Amos Parrish will tell what a fashion is, the difference between a fashion and a style, how fashions change, how new fashions gain acceptance, how you can tell what's in fashion.

The Amos Parrish articles will appear in Boston exclusively in the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser.

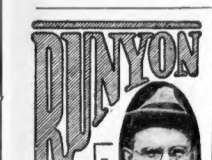
RUNYON SAYS



by Damon Runyon

Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.

New York, July 2—In my opinion, the biggest money match lying around loose right now is Jimmy McLarnin and Micky Walker, with Walker's title of middleweight champion of the world at stake.

It is the one match I see that involves two truly great natural fighters, and I believe it would produce the most desperate ring battles the game has seen in many years.

This appears to be too much for McLarnin, until you remember that he is as tall as Walker, if not taller, and that Walker would have to make 160 pounds, the middleweight championship limit, and that "The Rumson Bulldog" would probably have plenty of trouble making that weight.

He has been fighting light heavyweights, and scaling upwards of 168 pounds, and I am inclined to doubt that Mickey, great fighter that he is, can come down much below that mark without leaving himself very weak.

Weight Would Be Handicap to Walker

The weight would be the handicap he would have to shoulder against McLarnin, and I confess I would have to give the boy from Belfast a good chance to flatten Walker, unless Mickey tagged him out very early.

While McLarnin is merely a light welterweight, scaling well under 147 pounds, the welterweight limit, he is very strong, and one of the most powerful right hand punchers we have. Walker himself as a welterweight once boxed Mike McTigue when Michael was light heavyweight champion of the world and gave away more poundage than McLarnin would have to concede him.

I say if this bout could be held in New York it would draw upwards of $400,000, because McLarnin is one of the greatest cards in these parts, and Walker would draw heavily from his home state of New Jersey. It might go to $500,000.

Not Likely to Be Staged in New York

It is not likely to be held in this state, however, as Walker has been under suspension here for some time, and there seems to be little chance that he will be reinstated. But that doesn't make it any the less attractive as a match. I'd like to see it myself.

The middleweight division is a washout just now. There isn't a contender for the title in sight who would draw any considerable amount of money with Walker, and after all you have to consider matches from that standpoint, regardless of the altruistic cracks about sportsmanship, and all that sort of thing.

And apparently the Thompson management isn't anxious for the McLarnin match, because they turned down a guarantee of $60,000 f. their end not long ago.

The West Coast negro is said to be controlled by the same party who handles Walker, the ubiquitous Dr. Jack Kearns, although the ostensible manager is Ray Alvin, of Chicago. Anyway, a McLarnin-Thompson match certainly isn't in the same category as a money match with a McLarnin-Walker bout.

McLarnin would have nothing to lose in the matter of prestige by meeting Walker, and would have a chance to win the middleweight title. If he failed, the crack at the welterweight title would still be waiting for him.

HUNTER VS. PETERSON IN FINAL

Bay State Girls' Junior Golf

SEMI-FINAL ROUND

Dorothy Hunter, Albemarle, defeated Priscilla Dennett, Essex County, 5 and 4.

Winifred Peterson, Crow Point, defeated Winifred Beal, Wellesley, 3 and 1.

By BILL GRIMES

Miss Hunter defeated Priscilla Dennett of Essex County, 5 and 4, while Miss Peterson eliminated Miss Beal, 3 and 1.

Miss Hunter went out in 39 to be 5 up at the turn on Miss Dennett and she was even so coming back for the five holes they played despite the fact she had 7s at the 10th and 13th holes.

Miss Hunter's card:

Out ..... 4 4 3 5 5 7 3 4 4—39
In 7 4 4 7 3

Miss Dennett's card:

Out ..... 6 6 5 7 6 6 5 4 5—48
In 6 5 5 6 3

Although Miss Peterson and Miss Beal did not play the brand of golf shot by Miss Hunter and Miss Dennett on the outward nine, it was a more interesting match.

Miss Peterson won the first hole, but Miss Beal squared the match on the fourth, only to have her opponent win the next three holes. A five at the ninth hole cut Miss Peterson's lead down to 2 up at the turn, but after they had halved the next three, a birdie four at the long 13th and a three to 14th gave Miss Peterson dormie 4.

Miss Beal came back with a win at the 15th and a 20-foot putt at the 16th by Miss Beal kept the match going, but the Wellesley girl got in trouble going to the 17th, and lost the hole and the match, 3 and 1.

Bill Tilden

BILL TILDEN, ONCE KING of the tennis world, and thought to have gone into decline after his defeats in the past two years, has played the same brand of tennis at Wimbledon that marked his career as world champion. He defeated Borotra, French Davis cup team star in the semi-finals, and his victory means an All-American final with the British singles title sure for America. (All photos by International Newsreel.)

John Doeg

AMERICAN NET STARS have blazed more brilliantly this year at Wimbledon than in any former campaign. So scintillating has been the play that high hopes of recapturing the Davis Cup from France have been aroused.

William Allison

Above we have John Hope Doeg of California and Wilmer Allison of Texas. Allison beat Doeg today in a hard five-set match, assuring an All-American final, for Tilden beat Borotra.

TILDEN AND ALLISON TO MEET

Wimbledon, Eng., July 2 (AP)—Bill Tilden beat his old rival, Jean Borotra, of France, in the semi-final round of the British tennis championship today in a thrilling five set match, 0—6, 6—4, 4—6, 6—0, 7—5.

Tilden staged a dramatic rally after trailing at 2—4 in the final set, scored one of the most sensational victories in the long rivalry between the Basque and the American and reached the final round of a tournament that he has not won in nine years.

Big Bill's victory marked the elimination of the last of the French contenders who have monopolized this championship for the last six years as Henri Cochet was eliminated on Monday by the young Texan, Wilmer Allison.

Allison Wins; Will Meet Tilden

The dashing young Texan, Allison, followed up his spectacular victory of two days ago over Henri Cochet of France, the defending champion, by eliminating his stalwart countryman, John Doeg of Santa Monica, Calif., in a gripping five-set struggle, 6—3, 8—6, 3—6, 7—5.

Cecilie Aussem Sprains Ankle

Fraulein Cecilie Aussem, popular little German tennis star, suffered a badly-sprained ankle in the third set of a match with Elizabeth Ryan, American player, in the semi-finals of the women's championships today and had to be carried from the court on a stretcher.

Miss Ryan automatically entered the finals by default.

Fraulein Assem fell in trying for one of Miss Ryan's low skimming chops to her backhand corner. She got up slowly, attempted to continue her service, then went down in a heap.

The big gallery started to cheer Fraulein Assem as she was placed on a stretcher and carried off the court but the sound was quickly hushed. Miss Ryan also was cheered as she left the court.

The match had been interesting, and closely contested with Miss Ryan winning the first set at 6—3, and Fraulein Aussem the second at 6—0, after which the German girl pulled up from 1—3 and 2—4 to even terms.

Helen Moody Wins; Will Meet Miss Ryan

Doctors said that the hot, sultry weather probably contributed to Fraulein Aussem's collapse.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody entered the final round in defence of her singles title by defeating Mme. Rene Mathieu of France, 6—3, 6—2. Fraulein Mathieu, successor to Su-

Heeney May Meet Schaaf or Gagnon

A new opponent to meet Tom Heeney, the Honest Blacksmith of New Zealand, will be selected today by Promoter Eddie Mack of the Argonne A. A., following the broken thumb sustained by Ricardo Bertazzolo, giant Italian, in training and the Hub promoter expects to stage a fight even better than the original card at Mechanics Building next Monday night.

Heeney's opponent will be selected today from a list of four heavyweights, including Ernie Schaaf, Jack Gagnon, Joe Monte or Marty Gallagher the sensational Washington puncher, who is now making his home in Dorchester.

Promoter Mack, however announces that he will clinch another heavyweight bout and will stage the show at Mechanics Building for Heeney has assured the local promoter that he will meet any opponent selected.

Today, in the real estate columns of the Classified Ads, you will find scores of opportunities for profitable investment.

Niagara Showers Lure Swelterers

Those unfortunate business men who swelter in busy offices those hot days and dream of their lucky friends bathing on the Cape or resting in the cool mountains are not as badly off as in former summers.

Sporting men and notables who are kept in the city have found one means of consolation. It is the Niagara Shower Baths on Washington st.

Diamond Pick-Ups

Charlie Jamieson is still one of baseball's greatest outfielders, despite his 37 years and more than a dozen seasons in the big leagues. There's nothing he can't do well, especially in Fenway Park.

Glen Myatt dropped a foul third strike on Russ Scarritt in the third, but covered it up so well that Umpire Dick Nallin called the batter out and broke up a most promising Sox rally.

Otis Miller is hitting the ball as hard as any of the Sox but his drives rarely land safe. Being robbed continually of base hits would discourage the average player, but it doesn't bother Otis a bit, judging from his work at third base. His fielding is something to write home about.

It took the whole Cleveland team to run Charlie Berry down between third and home in the fifth, and when it was all over the Sox catcher was so wet that he had to put on a new uniform.

Milt Gaston had only himself to blame for the lone Cleveland run. He walked Morgan, and let him advance to third by throwing wild to first to catch him off. He hurled a great game, nevertheless, and how he hit!

The Sox had one or more runners on base every inning, but scored in only two, which is the way not to win ball games, even though they did pull through on this occasion.

Ships on Lookout for Lost Yacht

New York, July 2 (AP)—All ships at sea have been requested to be on the lookout for the ketch-rigged auxiliary yawl Tanager, only entrant in the New London Ct., to Bermuda yacht race which failed to finish. The ketch left with 41 other craft from New London on June 22.

Aboard the Tanager were her owner, Paul M. Runyon of Edgartown, Mass., her cousin, Ralph C. Rankin of Fort Washington, N. Y.; two friends of Rankin and Runyon and a seaman.

Despite the fact that the Tanager is about six days overdue, friends were not unduly alarmed. Both Runyon and Rankin are experienced sailors and friends thought they had run past the island for some distance before discovering their mistake.

Narlesky Goes to Indianapolis

The Red Sox today released Bill Narlesky, utility infielder, to the Indianapolis club of the American Association. He will leave immediately and join his new mates at Louisville, Ky.

Narlesky is the third Sox to go to Indianapolis in the last few days, Joe Cicero, an outfielder, and Frank Mulroney, a pitcher, having been sent West last week.

Malden Defeats St. John, 11-2

St. John, N. B., July 2—With Sullivan, hard-hitting left fielder, leading the attack against Lloyd Stirling his two doubles of 14 safe blows by Malden driving in four runs, the runner-up in the Provincial two-loop won here this afternoon, 11-2. A blanket of fog prevented the scheduled morning fixture, while the same condition obtained at night. This gave Malden one victory and a tie on the series here, but two of the five games billed being staged.

Loftus twirled for the visitors and kept the tight St. John hits well scattered.

Red Sox Have Fighting Chance to Jump to 5th Place

LOCALS MUST WIN AGAIN TODAY

By JOE CASHMAN

Our Red Sox, deep in the cellar when they returned home less than two weeks ago, today have an opportunity to go into a virtual tie for fifth place.

If they whip the Indians in the third and final game of their series at the Fens and the Tigers and Browns are beaten twice by the Athletics and Senators, respectively, the Wagners will pass the Detroit entry and be on even terms with the Mound City outfit at the top of the second division, as far as games won and lost are concerned.

Joe Cashman

It is very much against the law of averages, of course, for any team to either win or lose two games in one afternoon, but neither Philadelphia nor Washington is paying particular attention to this or any other law these days.

They are merely murdering all opposition as fast as it shows up and it wouldn't be at all surprising if they made it possible for the Sox to make a two-place jump this p. m., providing the latter help themselves out by winning.

Danny MacFayden, who hurled the Wagners out of the cellar on Saturday last, is primed to do all that can be done on this end to pull his mates up out of the depths.

It is quite a task that the Senorville youngster faces. The Indians have been poison to the Sox all year, winning seven out of ten games played to date, and are determined to grab the deciding game of the current engagement.

MacFayden Has Fine Record to Date

Still, if young Daniel is as effective as he has been for the past month, he figures to win. He has won his last five games in a row and six out of seven since the first of June.

He started his consecutive victory streak by whipping the Tigers in Detroit and next took the measure of the White Sox in Chicago.

Coming home, he turned in a three-hit triumph over the Browns and followed this up by blanking the Tigers with three singles. Then in his last start, he stopped the White Sox again.

Those five performances with a club like the Sox stamp the bespectacled Somerville youngster as one of baseball's best pitchers, and opposing batsmen say he is just that.

Danny has never had a winning season in his five years with the Sox, but it looks now as though he will win far more games than he loses this campaign.

He has always had plenty of stuff. He came right up from high school into the big show and displayed enough ability to escape being sent back for seasoning.

He failed to win more often than he lost, only because he lacked weight and was inclined to work too hard in soft spots.

He has overcome both of these handicaps this season and is the Sox' most successful flinger.

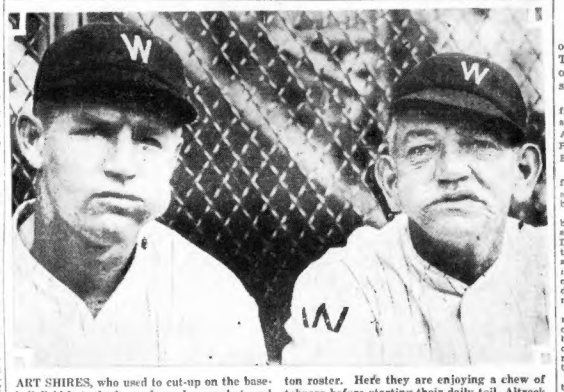
BASEBALL CLOWNS HAVE A 'CHAW'



ART SHIRES, who used to cut-up on the baseball field but who has reformed somewhat, and Nick Altrock, who still slays them with his diamond antics, are now friends on the Washington roster. Here they are enjoying a chew of tobacco before starting their daily toil, Altrock to amuse, Shires to play his best baseball, so he says.

Risko and Griffith Clash for Third Time Tonight

Chicago, July 2 (US)—Johnny Risko, the old pump handle of the heavyweights, will make his Chicago debut tonight against Tuffy Griffith, who has also been having his ups and downs here of late, in the 10-round windup of the Chicago Stadium's boxing show.

Rubbery John has been very frisky in his last two efforts, which saw him punch the gigantic South American, Vittorio Campolo, and Paulino Uzcudin, the Bounding Basque, full of holes.

Ordinarily, these two flashes of form would make the business of selecting a probable winner of this brawl comparatively easy.

Our Mr. Griffith has beaten Rubbery John twice previously, however, the first time on a foul in Detroit and the second time through the medium of an impressive and decisive decision victory in New York. Since then the Tuff one suffered a technical knockout defeat at the hands of Jack Gagnon.

At the time his handlers announced that Tuffy had looked on Gagnon as a "soft touch" and had done what little training he did accordingly. The announcement was branded as an alibi by the alleged experts.

Griffith proved there was some truth in the statement, however, by polishing off Mr. Gagnon in a return engagement, without delay, for amateurs and pros.

Risko's numerous setbacks have also been charged to the fact that he failed to follow the straight and narrow road that leads to pugilistic success.

As a consequence, there are two young men in there tonight who have, or should have, seen the error of their ways. They will both be fighting for redemption and, incidentally, a chance to prove their worth as prospective title challengers.

Georgetti Confident of Win on Saturday

Franco Georgetti, American motor paced champion, rides with three others in a 25-mile race at Revere cycle track on Saturday. He says he will positively win this week, although he is pitted against Chapman, Charlie Winters and Al Letournier.

A 10-mile professional paced race finds John Gallo, Revere; John Bruskie, Robert Christian and Ralph Duffey riding. There will also be shorter distance contests in turn.

KENT SCHOOL CREW WINS AT HENLEY

Henley, Eng., July 2 (AP)—America's two standard bearers in the competition for the Thames Challenge Cup for eight-oared crews won their opening heats today, as the Royal Henley regatta got under way on the picturesque Thames.

Princeton University's lightweight crew was hard pressed to win by a scant length from the Twickenham Rowing Club, but the Kent School crew of Kent, Conn., easily defeated Sidney Sussex College of Cambridge University by two and one-half lengths.

Princeton's 150-pound oarsmen took a slight lead at the start only to have Twickenham quickly draw level. The crews raced on even terms as far as Fawley, the halfway mark, after which Princeton slowly drew away. The official times showed a bare 2 seconds between the shells.

Princeton's time of 7 minutes, 47 seconds was 2 seconds faster than that made by the Kent schoolboys in winning their heat, but their opposition was considerably stronger.

Five Nations Start 3300-Mile Bike Race

Paris, July 2 (AP)—Five teams of eight riders representing France, Germany, Belgium, Italy and Spain, began today the annual bicycle tour of France over a designated course of about 3300 miles.

The yearly event usually occupies about 30 days of steady riding. The French people greet the riders over the whole course and accord the survivors a regal reception when they finish on the road from Dieppe to Paris.

BILL TILDEN IN FINAL ROUND

zanne Lenglen as the No. 1 ranking woman player of France, lost the first four games to Mrs. Moody at the start of their match, but then proceeded to win three in a row, breaking through Queen Helen's service at love.

But the American applied more pressure and took the next two games for the set.

Mme. Mathieu led Mrs. Moody by two games to one in the second set, but Queen Helen soon regained mastery and with better length and speed she carried the set without difficulty, thus winning the match and qualifying to meet her fellow-Californian and doubles partner, Miss Ryan, in the final.

In mixed doubles, Miss Ryan and her Australian partner, Jack Crawford, beat Sarah Palfrey, Boston, and Gregory Mangin, Newark, N. J., 6—2, 6—4.

Jack Conway Picks Braddock to Win Over Monte

Jack Conway today picked James J. Braddock to win from Joe Monte in their 10-round bout at Fenway Park tonight.

"Braddock and Monte have already fought a couple of draws," said Jack. "As draws are not permitted in Massachusetts, there will have to be a winner tonight.

"I am stringing along with Braddock on account of his great punching power. He proved he could sock with his right duke when he stopped Tuffy Griffiths and Jimmy Slattery."

Conway's 1930 record is as follows.

First bout, 8:15 o'clock; main bout, 10 o'clock.

By JACK CONWAY

James J. Braddock and Joe Monte will try to re-establish the boxing game in Boston when they clash in a 10-round bout at Fenway Park tonight at a show staged under the direction of the Arena A. C.

As Braddock and Monte have already engaged in two furious ten round contests, it is reasonable to suppose they will also furnish action at Col. Rob McKitdy's fistic offering.

The two previous contests were staged at the New York Garden and ended in draws. This writer saw the second scrap and it was a hurricane affair from bell to bell.

Braddock is a product of New Jersey rings. He is a stand up fighter who relies upon a terrific right hand punch to the jaw to crush the opposition.

Braddock used this punch with success against Tuffy Griffiths and Jimmy Delaney, knocking out both opponents.

The Jersey slugger also gave the once mighty Jimmy Loughran one of the toughest battles of his career. Braddock carries the torch of Flaming Youth. As he has been packing on weight, he aspires to battle as a heavyweight.

Joe Could is in town with Fred Brock. Joe is a colorful manager and has piloted Jimmy since the latter started boxing as a pro. Joe is also manager of Ray Miller who was billed Honeyboy Finnegan here.

Monte Has Been on Victory Trail

Monte has had a long run of success. He has twice beaten the rugged Harry Allen. He has also taught Al Freeman who has been the busiest of any of the heavyweights.

Ray Cass tells me Monte is in the best condition of his career for his meeting with Braddock. His plans to carry the battle to the Jersey youth and is confident he will come through with a victory.

If Monte wins from Braddock, he will go gunning for matches with Ernie Schaaf and Jim Maloney.

Henry Lamar, who has won his last two starts, will be at the ringside tonight to challenge the winner.

Jack McCarthy Clashes With Bobby Brown

Jack McCarthy, Roxbury light heavyweight, will meet a severe test when he opposes Bobby Brown of Lowell in the eight-round semi-final. McCarthy was a star as an amateur and has had a couple of pro starts. He was at Orangeburg, N. Y., with Jack Sharkey and picked up some valuable ring experience while there.

The Arena Club has adopted popular prices of from 50 cents to $3. This is sure to make a hit with the fans.

FOULS RULED OUT IN N. Y.

New York, July 2 (U.S.)—Erasing a line that has been a fundamental of boxing since 1872, the New York Boxing Commission unanimously resolved that a blow below the belt no longer will be recognized as a cause for terminating a contest in this state.

The decision was made at the request of Sammy Mandell, world's lightweight champion, and Al Singer, who meet for the title at the Polo Grounds on July 17. Both boxers asked that the referee be instructed not to stop the contest in the event either man struck low.

The commission agreed with the supplicants and went them one better. In effect, it declared it impossible to incapacitate a boxer with the abdominal protector now in use. It also stated that contests and ruled that all boxers appearing in this state must sign a foul waiver on and after July 17.

SPORT EDITORIAL

The New York Athletic Commission scored a crushing blow against those boxers who have been claiming foul when it passed a rule barring victories on fouls. In future all ring contests in New York State will have to have a decisive ending.

The public pays millions of dollars each year to see boxing contests. The popularity of honest boxing is admitted by everybody. The public, however, has become disgusted with the recent conduct of some of those persons closely connected with the boxing game.

Too many important bouts have terminated with the "victor" on the floor setting up a claim of foul. In justice to some of the boxers, it can be said they would have been willing to have continued if it had not been for orders from their corners. Short-sighted managers believe they show their own ability by winning for their boxers under any conditions.

Demonstrations of the various protectors used by ringmen have proved that it is almost impossible to injure a person with even a low punch.

Under the new rule of the New York Commission fighters must fight. If they refuse to do this, let them go to work. The public is tired of paying to see strong, healthy men floundering around on the canvas of boxing rings. They are now to be prevented from killing the goose that laid the golden egg.

Boxers who foul intentionally should be barred.

JACK CONWAY.

First Steeplechase at Chicago in 25 Years

Chicago, July 2 (US)—Chicago got its first glimpse of a steeplechase race yesterday since 1905 and accepted the new form of sport with open arms.

The Long Meadow Purse, the second race at Arlington Park, brought back jumping races after an absence of a quarter of a century and the crowd cheered the riders and horses at each fence in a fashion that could not be misunderstood.

A field of six answered the bugle in the steeplechase to race two miles, twice around the new jumping course in the infield over thirteen brush fences, water holes and bunkers.

Three of the six were coupled as an entry, Zermatt and Brown Stout, owned by Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark, and George Brooke's Autumn Bells, all trained by Jim Healy.

The other starters were Irish Jig and the Ace II., like the three of the entry. New York-owned, and Royal Charge, recently a flat racer at Washington Park, being sent over the jumps for the first time.

It didn't cause any great surprises when the entry ran one-two-three, Autumn Bells winning, and Mrs. Clark's pair, Zermatt and Brown Stout, finishing second and third. But it was a big surprise when the three-horse entry paid $4.64 to win.

Autumn Bells set his own pace all the way, jumped smoothly and had the most speed on the last stretch, winning by 10 lengths well in hand, under a good ride by Jockey Hardaway. The winner carried top weight of 156 pounds and ran the two miles in 4.04 2-5.

'Twixt Tee and Cup

By BILL GRIMES

Hundreds of golf enthusiasts will be at the Winchester Country Club this afternoon when Horton Smith and Leo Diegel tackle Francis Ouimet and George Voigt in an 18-hole exhibition match.

This exhibition will mark the official opening of the new 17th and 18th holes, and the foursome will be shooting at the 71 which Clark Hodder turned in a week ago.

Regardless of how well any of the players score in the Winchester exhibition, it would be unfair to credit them with a record, as the match is a four-ball event. It is one thing to go out in a four ball tournament and lower a record, but it is quite another stunt to carry on alone and lower the best round in a straight medal play event.

In a four-ball event it is possible to take chances, for if a shot errs the partner can make up for the slip. For this reason the prizes are not under the mental strain which accompanies a medal play tournament.

Under no conditions should records be recognized which are made in any other than straight medal play events.

When a club offers as an excuse for its failure to cut handicaps that by so going it would ruin its chances of winning a four-ball league, golf is rapidly getting in the hoxing class. Hitting low is no more of a foul than accepting undeserved strokes.

Representatives of the various Greater Boston police departments will meet shortly and discuss the advisability of holding a champion ship. The championship will be decided over the 72-hole route and will be played on four different courses. There are some fine golfers in the police departments of Brookline, Watertown, Wellesley, Cambridge and Newton.

Speaking of golfing policemen, Tommy Welch, the former station agent at Woodland is now a member of the Needham force.

Fred Parker has come under the knife of the South Shore Country Club handicapper. Although Fred has had only two years at the game, he has turned in an 86 and an 89 this season.

And incidently, Tom Mahan's 70 at South Shore was a sensational achievement. Tom had never seen the course until Monday and if he had been fortified with a round or two to familiarize himself with the second shots, he would have set a record which the boys could have shot at for years to come.

Unquestionably, Miss Dorothy Hunter of Ashemarle will be crowned girl junior champion of Massachusetts tomorrow at [illegible] Miss Hunter was only 12 years old when she romped to the W. G. A. championship. She is one of the most promising girl players in the state and within a few seasons should be well known nationally.

Pres. James H. Kimball of the South Shore Country Club was on hand to welcome the New England Professional Golfers' Organization and their amateur patricia. The pros were very favorably impressed with South Shore and many predicted that within a few years it would be one of the most popular layouts in this section.

Restore energy quickly with this "Golden" Ginger Ale

IF you have to work on a hot steamy day, you need all the liquid you can drink.

And you need the extra energy, the added pep, that Clicquot Club Golden has to offer.

There is "invert" sugar in Clicquot Club Golden. Sugar in its most digestible, quick-energy form. Five minutes after you take a glass of this delicious drink, tingling new energy will be your quick reward.

Just try Clicquot Club Golden, with meals, and between meals. See how it keeps your efficiency and your spirits at a new high level.

Aged for Smooth, Fine Flavor

Clicquot Club Golden is in a class by itself because of its method of making and ageing. It is made from real fruit flavors, the best Jamaica ginger root, and pure water from deep rock springs. All the flavors are blended in one smooth, delicate taste by six months of ageing in the making.

Don't accept inferior ginger ales, often manufactured hastily to take advantage of the demand created by Clicquot Club Golden. Insist on genuine Clicquot Club and get the real aged flavor and quick-energy food value.

Bottled in clean, new bottles never used before, Clicquot Club comes to you with complete assurance of purity. And the Clicquot Club full-measure pint is the size people find most economical.

Give Clicquot Club Golden to the whole family. Take it freely when you are tired and hot. It will make a big difference in the way you feel.

Try this different flavor, if you please

If you like a "dry" ginger ale rather than the "golden" flavor, ask for Clicquot Club Pale Dry. For an extra dry ginger ale, ask for Clicquot Club Sec. Try all three flavors and decide for yourself which one you like best.

CHAPTER 19

Tosh meets me at the mess-room door and draws me aside. Commandant wants me. There is a notice on the board to that effect. We have long suspected there was a "policeman" in our midst now we are certain. Last night's scene has leaped out. Some one has carried tales to Commandant. She wants to pump me. Tosh has been through the third degree for an hour.

"She got nothing out of me," says Tosh, "but The Bug, caught napping, admitted that Frost calmed Skinny down in the finish. So she's in it now. In Commandant's room with Skinny."

"What about Etta Potato?"

"She isn't back yet, but I'll catch her. Not that she knows anything to tell. Mrs. Itch is well on the warpath; she's thinks there's something at the back of all this. So go easy."

"I'll go easy." I set my lips obstinately. I am no policeman for Commandant. She will get nothing out of me. I gulp down a cup of tea. I am in exactly the right mood when I enter the office a few minutes later.

Skinny and Frost are sitting hard. Frost is a thin, weak, spineless creature called "The Chinless Wonder" by those who take the trouble to dislike her. It always amazes me how such a stupid-looking girl can drive better than anyone I have ever met. She is a marvel with a car.

Now she is red-eyed and red-nosed, a revolting spectacle. Skinny is weeping for effect, I note at a glance, in answer to Commandant's questionings. Well, Commandant will not make me weep. She can punish me till she is green in the face but she will not dissolve me into tears. Neither will she make me talk. I become quite reckless. It will be interesting to see how much punishment I can get and still survive.

"Nothing."

"Nothing? You were there."

"I was asleep."

"That is a lie. You were assisting at a farewell celebration for a failure who was leaving—Farmer."

I say nothing.

"Breaking rules like small children."

I would like to ask what can she expect if she treats us like small children, but I will not give her any opening.

"You also had two bottles of strong drink."

"It is no laughing matter, Smith. Is it true?"

I make no reply.

"Very well, be orderly all next week. Now perhaps you will answer my questions."

I make a mental note.

"You realize you risk being sent back to England in disgrace for insubordination if you refuse to obey my orders?"

The threat leaves me cold. She will not send me back. I only wish she would. She will punish and make our lives a misery, but she will not send us back. Drivers who stick it because if they went home they would be bullied by their people into coming out again—perhaps into something even worse—are few and far between in this convoy where they come and go like tourists on lightning trips. Six drivers out of every 10. We call them "The-Seeing-Francers"!

"What did Washington say to make Skinner attack her?"

The expected query is unexpected, somehow. I go scarlet. I can feel the blood dyeing my neck, my face, even my hands. Commandant's eyes bore me like gimlets.

"I—I don't know." My tone lacks conviction even to myself, although I am technically telling strict truth. I do not know what Tosh said to Skinny, but Commandant will never

Comdr. Alger on Job

Comdr. James A. Alger, the new chief of staff to Capt. W. M. Munter, division commander of the coast guard at Boston, assumed his duties yesterday.

SURPRISE TO RELATIVES OF BOTH

Geddes G. Abbott and Florence M. Davis Wed in New York on a Vacation

Geddes G. Abbott, 64, Boston insurance man, is returning from a month's vacation with a 26-year-old bride.

Abbott was secretly married in New York yesterday to Miss Florence M. Davis of 111 Welles ave., Dorchester. They were wed by a deputy city clerk in New York City Hall upon their return from a month's cruise to Havana and Mexico City.

The nuptials were in the nature of an elopement so far as Abbott's son, Charles, 24, is concerned. Charles, who lives with his father at the family residence in Storis ave., Braintree, said he was surprised, to say the least, at the news.

He said he had seen his new stepmother but once, when she visited the Braintree home.

Abbott is district manager for a local insurance company. His wife died a year ago. In addition to his own son, he has two stepsons, Frederick K. Abbott and Howard K. Abbott.

Although the bride's mother, who is Mrs. Mary A. Connolly, said the couple left her home on the start of their vacation cruise, she was not aware that they were to be married so soon. She said Abbott had been a frequent visitor at their Dorchester home.

The newlyweds are expected to return to Boston tomorrow.

Stabbing Victim Dies From Wounds

Alleged victim of a husband who arrived home unexpectedly, John E. Parker, 38, of Richdale ave., Somerville, died of stab wounds today at Haymarket Relief station.

The stabbing occurred June 22, when Frederick C. Reynolds, 30, of Everett st., Jamaica Plain, arrived home and found Parker calling on his wife. Reynolds, according to police, confessed the assault. He is now in jail unable to raise $5000 bail on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

Esperantists Elect Hetzel President

Other officers chosen are: Vice-president, Prof. Louis C. Lambert, Boston University; secretary, J. J. Sousmuth, Fort Lee, N. Y.; assistant secretary, Miss Catherine Sousmuth; treasurer, Mrs. Mary Scheitlin, Jackson Heights, N. Y.

Gives $6225 a Year for Hot Dog Stand

The hot dog and refreshment business is so good at Columbus Park, South Boston, that C. E. Wentworth, Jr., of that district, today entered into a contract whereby he will pay the city $6225 annually for three years for the exclusive privilege of dispensing weenies and the fixin's there.

Near Suffocation in Auto

UNHINGE DOOR TO SAVE DOG

A little black and white Boston terrier nearly suffocated in a locked car parked at Franklin and Hawley sts today until four, the crowd that gathered to block traffic for many minutes stopped a prefecial Good Samaritan who opened the door by taking it off the hinges.

Passers saw the dog lying on the seat with its tongue out. The windows were tightly closed and the terrier appeared in a state of collapse.

The crowd gathered and Officer Joseph Donovan of Station 2 sought ineffectually to open the door. Finally [illegible] number of keys but none fit.

The practical Samaritan came upon the scene and "did his stuff" without delay, carrying the auto into a nearby store, where it was revived with water.

Some time later two men appeared, claimed the dog and drove off with it. They said the terrier's name was "Buddy," but declined to give their own. The officer also refused to give out their name. [illegible] was [illegible] issued to Max Rebbot of 152 Puritan [illegible] Somerville.

Autoists Like New Alewife Brook Road

Alewife Brook parkway extension, Massachusetts ave to Fresh Pond parkway, Cambridge, was opened today and motorists found it an excellent route to avoid travel on Massachusetts ave. and through Harvard sq.

The highway was built by the State at a cost of $600,000. It is 40 feet wide and twice bridges tracks of the Boston & Maine system.

STATE, CITY JOIN FOR WAR ON ARSON GANG

Mayor Curley and Felix Vorenberg to Head Campaign Against Firebugs

City and State officials are to unite under the leadership of Mayor James M. Curley and Felix Vorenberg in a campaign to apprehend and bring to justice arson groups now operating in Boston.

Plans for the campaign were discussed at a conference between Mayor Curley and the members of the committee on the revision of fire insurance rates, of which Mr. Vorenberg is chairman, today.

At the conference it was decided to enlist the support of every law-enforcing agency in the city and state services.

A meeting will be held next week to further plans for the campaign. To it will be invited Police Commissioner Eugene C. Sullivan, State Fire Marshal John Reich and Fire Commissioner Edward F. McLaughlin.

Name Hetzel Head of Esperantists

Other officers chosen were: Vice-president, Prof. Louis C. Lambert, Boston University, secretary, J. J. Sousmuth, Fort Lee, N. J., assistant secretary, Miss Catherine Sousmuth; treasurer, Mrs. Mary Scheitlin, Jackson Heights, N. Y. Paul R. Cargnuld of Cleveland, Alexander B. Dennison of Georgetown, N. Y., and Mrs. Catherine Healey of Montclair, N. J., were chosen the executive committee.

Cost Him $1300 to Win $650 at Poker

Because he won $650 from Louis Janty in a poker game, Benjamin Novak must forfeit twice that amount to the state, the full bench of the Supreme Court ruled today.

The court overruled Novak's exceptions to the decision of Judge Buttrick and declared the old statute of 1746 authorizing forfeiture to the state of double the amount won over $5 in a card game to be still in effect. No constitutional rights were violated in the lower court's decision, the full bench finds, and Novak must pay $1300.

FLOAT PARADE IS ASSURED

It was definitely decided at conference between Mayor Curley and members of the executive board of the Boston tercentenary committee in City Hall today that the float parade planned for Aug. 16 will take place.

The floats will be paid for by various Boston business houses and manufacturing establishments and will cost $200 each.

Fourteen concerns have definitely decided to purchase floats for the parade and eight others have the matter under consideration.

CLAIMS HE IS ENTITLED TO 'SHIRT KING' FORTUNE

Byrd March Composer Says He and Brother Are Heirs of Sir John Goldberg

Convinced he has proof that he is one of the rightful heirs to a fortune of $140,000,000, Boris Goldberg, of 91 Hampshire st., Cambridge revealed today that he has engaged a lawyer to fight for his share.

Goldberg says the vast estate was left by Sir John Goldberg, a New York "shirt king," who died two months ago, having no direct descendant.

"I have plenty of proof, both documents and photographs, to prove my relationship," he said today. "My brother, Reuben A. Goldberg of Hartford, who is now travelling in Europe, will share with me in the fortune when it is divided."

When he does get his share of the fortune, Goldberg plans to devote himself to music. He composed a march dedicated to Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd which will be broadcast from a Boston station tomorrow evening.

RENAME HAAS LUDLOW JUDGE

Atty.-Gen. Joseph E. Warner had exonerated Haas of charges made by the town selectmen that he was unfit for office. His original commission expired on June 8.

To the special commission created by the legislature to study remedies for combating the increased use of habit forming drugs, the Governor appointed Abraham C. Webber and Henry P. Fielding, former assistant district attorneys of Suffolk county, State Health Commissioner George H. Bigelow, Medical Examiner George B. McGrath, Chester H. Clark of Marlboro, William S. Barry of Melrose, and Michael M. Jordan of Worcester.

To fill the vacancy in the district court of central Middlesex caused by the death of Special Justice Elihu G. Loomis, the Governor appointed Edward B. Caiger of Concord.

Hub Exchange on Indiana Blacklist

The Boston Stock Exchange has been removed from the list of accredited stock exchanges approved by the Indiana Securities Commission, Mark Rhoads, Indiana State commissioner, announced yesterday.

According to Rhoads removal of the Boston exchange followed its refusal to attend hearings and make appearances at a hearing held at Indianapolis last week on charges made by Secretary of State Fifield.

Secretary George A. Rich of the exchange said there would be a statement issued today to clarify the position of the Boston group.

FULLER GIRLS IN AUTO CRASH

Still thanking good fortune that they were not killed, Mary Fuller, 14, and Lydia Fuller 16, daughters of former Gov. Alvan T. Fuller, were recovering today from injuries received when their roadster blew a tire yesterday in North Hampton, N. H.

Mary is at the Phillips House, Massachusetts General Hospital with a broken nose and many cuts and bruises, while Lydia is at the Fuller summer home at Rye Beach, less than a mile from where the accident happened.

The elder girl suffered cuts and a shaking up, but was treated and kept at home.

According to Lydia, she lost control of the roadster, one of the Fuller fleet of cars, when the tire blew, and the machine plunged over an embankment.

Fortunately the car remained upright in its plunge for had it turned over both girls probably would have been killed.

Mary was brought to Boston at 2 p. m. in one of the family's cars and taken to the hospital. She was accompanied by Mrs. Fuller.

The girls were returning to their father's home from the postoffice where they had gone to get mail. The accident happened at the northern tip of Little Boars Head.

SORORITY MET WITH NEW HEAD

Minus the former president, Mrs. Ida Shaw Martin, of Roxbury, and her staunch supporter Mrs. Gertrude D. Halbert, of Milton, the convention of the Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority carried on today at Hotel Statler.

Indignant at what they characterized as autocratic action on the part of Mrs. Martin, the bulk of the delegates elected Mrs. Wilma Sharp, of Independence, Mo., president and adjourned from the New Ocean House, Swampscott, to Hotel Statler yesterday.

Today the delegates were preparing to vote on a list of nominees for various offices in the absence of Mrs. Martin.

The quadrennial convention of the sorority, made up of chapters from 24 teachers' colleges throughout the country, was called for June 30 at the New Ocean House by Mrs. Martin.

With her term expiring yesterday, delegates charge she posted policemen at the doors of the convention room, and prohibited the holding of a meeting until she appeared.

The incensed delegates entered another room in the hotel, held a meeting, elected Mrs. Sharp president and then adjourned to Boston.

Among the officers for whom they will vote is Miss Margaret Wagner of Northampton, candidate for vice president.

DR. BIGELOW IN TETANUS PERIL WARNING

Deadly Lockjaw Lurks in Fireworks Injuries, Says the State's Health Chief

A timely warning to the public on the dangers of lockjaw following injuries from explosives during the Fourth of July celebration was issued today by Public Health Commissioner George H. Bigelow.

"Whether the Fourth of July this year will be followed by an increase in deaths from lockjaw depends upon the application of the knowledge we have in its prevention," declared the commissioner.

"The germs of tetanus or lockjaw gain entrance into the body through wounds in the skin. The disease is much more likely to follow deep or perforated wounds than surface wounds. Wounds made by toy pistols, blank cartridges and powder give opportunity for tetanus germs to thrive. Lockjaw is fatal in a large proportion of cases. The disease is more common during the summer when people spend much time out-of-doors.

"On July fourth do not pick up a fire cracker which fails to explode. It may have a delayed fuse and explode in your hand. Avoid getting close to pin-wheels, sky rockets and Roman candles. Pistols fitting blank cartridges have no place in the hands of the very young."

Master Cleaners in State-Wide Drive

Aiming at standardization of equipment and methods in order to turn out the best piece of work possible, the master cleaners and dyers of Massachusetts have organized a State-wide body.

As organizer and secretary of the Massachusetts Cleaners and Dyers, Harry Burnim is now on a good-will tour of the State. His mission is to bring to every tailor and cleaner, facts of the industry, so that they may all keep high standards of quality service.

Many Improvements at Wayland Course

Eddie Paul, pro at the Wayland Golf Club, announces that considerable improvements have been made at the club recently. A new English type green at No. 4 will probably be ready for the holiday.

CAMBRIDGE BOARD AT ODDS OVER DRY LAW REPEAL SIGNATURES

FACEY DENIES 'FORGERIES' CHARGE

Secretary Penniman, How Legality of Some Names ever, Insists on Doubting

Members of Cambridge election commission were at odds today over some of the signatures on the initiative petition for repeal of the Baby Volstead law submitted by the Constitutional Liberty League and declared to be forged.

While Chairman J. Frank Facey denied he had made a statement asserting that many of the signatures appeared "phoney," Secretary Harry A. Penniman stuck by his original statement to that effect

"To be frank with you," Penniman said today to the Boston Evening American, "there is still a doubt in my mind as to whether the signatures are legal. As yet, the League has not sent a handwriting expert, as they said they would, and I doubt if they will send one. Life, however, is too short to worry about things like this."

DENIAL BY FACEY

Facey said:

"I did not say the signatures were forgeries. The signatures will be certified by the commission and checked with the voting list of Cambridge. They will then be sent to the secretary of state for his official O. K."

David F. Sibley, executive secretary of the Constitutional Liberty League, is the man who attacked the original reported statement of Chairman Facey and Secretary Penniman.

Sibley said that, accompanied by two witnesses, one of them Robert Blom of Dorchester, who obtained the signatures, he went to Facey and obtained the denial.

Then, according to Sibley, they checked on several of the names and found them to be genuine signatures.

SIBLEY STATEMENT

Sibley said:

"I saw Mr. Facey yesterday in Cambridge and he denied that any such statement ever came from him. I told this to the Associated Press last night and they also questioned him and he denied it to them.

"Accompanied by Mr. Facey, I went to the home of Miss Elizabeth A. Karcher of 85 Pleasant st., Cambridge, a staunch prohibitionist up to now. Mr. Facey had said she did not even live there, but I knew her and knew she did.

"I asked her if she had signed a paper in the last few days and she said, 'No.' I took one of the petition sheets and showed it to her. She said, 'Oh, the Baby Volstead Act! Yes, I signed that.'"

FIRED RUM SHIP GOES DOWN

After burning nearly 18 hours, during which time there caused all kinds of excitement afloat and ashore from Marblehead to Cohasset, the wooden steamship, Moritz, sank at 7.50 a. m., 10 miles northeast by north of Boston lightship.

The former rum runner fired yesterday three miles off Boston light because her owners did not care to pay the expenses of reconditioning her, took her last plunge in 28 fathoms, according to the "death watch."

Prey of flames, the winds and the tides she drifted nearly into Marblehead harbor while thousands lined the shore watching her afraid she would set fire to yachts. Still burning, she was taken in tow farther off shore for her dive to Davey Jones.

4 City Officials Are Reappointed

Reappointments of four city officials, one of them a woman, were announced today by Mayor Curley.

Election Commissioner Helen A. Macdonald was returned to that position for a term ending April 30, 1934. Michael H. Corcoran and William Spottiswoode were reappointed Sinking Fund Commissioners for terms ending April 30, 1933, and Anders T. Telestrom was retained as a member of the Board of Overseers of the Public Welfare for a term ending April 30, 1933.

Curley 'Decorated' by Valorous Vets

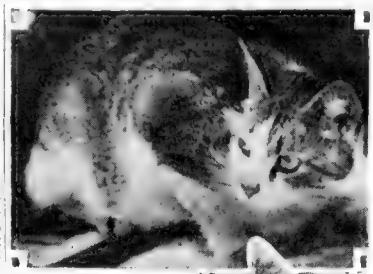
Cats May Be Tough, But They Will Have Their Day



A FIGHTER. Looks like a nice, quiet cat. It's from Beacon Hill and is an aristocrat. But Denny Keefe insists that the roughest, toughest cats are the Beacon Hill alley cats. Judge for yourself.

DENNY KEEFE, with two of his feline charges. He is now feeding 27 cats, three times daily, at the city stables on Albany st., South End. They are his pets and will be right on deck when the cat defenders have their indignation meeting on July 10.

PACT REACHED ON WORKERS

An agreement between insurance interests and Quincy granite manufacturers, providing for the installation of further safeguards for the health of granite cutters, will probably result in the insurance companies continuing to insure the manufacturers under the Massachusetts compensation act at the premium rate of $10 per $100 of payroll.

Boom Mrs. Schofield for Malden Judge

With a new judgeship to be filled at the Malden District Court, friends of Mrs. Emma Fall Schofield are urging her appointment.

Mrs. Schofield is a resident of Malden, president of the Malden Women's Republican Club, is an assistant attorney-general and is a member of the Malden Common Council.

Cats Tough? Indeed No, Says South End

What section of Boston has the toughest cats?

Not the South End. By George, no! The recent charge that North Hampton st. cats are so tough they don't even sit down to wash their paws will be the subject of an indignation meeting at the municipal building on July 10.

K. S. McLean, executive head of the Washington Street Association, has issued the call for the meeting and invitations have been extended to all the South End civic bodies. The South End has had enough of disparaging comment—lodging houses, liquor dives and now, cats. It's time to draw the line.

Well, if the South End cat isn't toughest, what cats are?

Say Beacon Hill cats, says Denny Keefe. The roughest, toughest, meat-boiled feline in or out of cans is, and not excepting the local tiger, is the Beacon Hill alley Tomcat, avers Mr. Keefe.

PRETTY TOUGH HE SAYS

He should know, for he talks their language and out of his own pocketbook at the rate of five good simoleons each week he feeds 27 cates at the city stables in Albany st., South End.

"I've seen some mighty tough cats come into our district from Beacon Hill, but with kindness and regular feeding, they become nearly as gentle as our own," he says.

Keefe will attend the South End's indignation meeting and serve catnip cocktails, nuts, heads and milk to such of the South End cats as are brought to give the lie to Denny.

Bradley Martin of 1499 Washington st., formerly of Beacon Hill, says the cats in the South End are ordinary cats, quiet and peaceful, but not the vicious cats are in the market district.

"Only recently one snapped at me while I was walking through Fulton st.," he said.

Miss Margaret Walker of 611 Massachusetts ave., deeply interested the comparison of the South End neighborhood cats with the Beacon Hill variety.

"A cat that is tough," she remarked, "will be tough wherever he lives."

Dan Higgins in charge of the entrance lodge of the Boston City Hospital, admitted that the cats near Northampton st. probably have more temptation than others but are not as wild as claimed. He is the owner of Jack, a huge, old tiger cat, who spends most of his time about the hospital buildings and grounds.

"No cat in this section is able to lick him," he declared.

Miss Vera Webster, dietitian at City Hospital, said that the nurses there were more fond of dogs and wash. Dr. Wang says elephants than cats.

"They seem to me like regular cats about here, no different from my Chesterfield, N. H., home pusses, which are the gentlest in the world."

James A. Keegan, of 2 East Canton st., stated:

"I thought cats were scarce around here, as I could not find one recently to catch a mouse. Roxbury is really the place for boho cats, as so many are abandoned there. When people move they rarely take the cat, or the broom, even if it is new, because of a fear of bad luck."

SLEEPY CAT

John J. Carey and M. J. Cleary, foremen of the sanitary division of the public works department said they never saw an employe attacked by a South End cat.

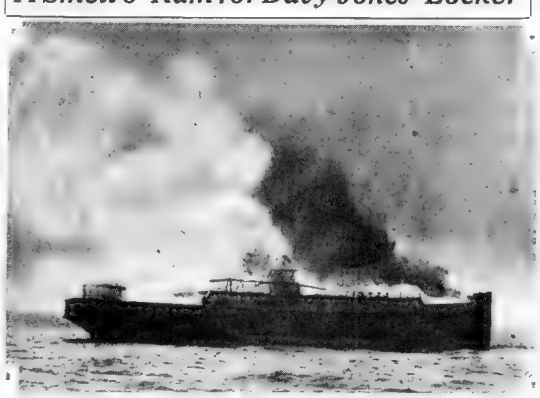
Superintendent Fallon Williamson of the maintenance department of the fire department remarked that there were some nice cats in the fire houses in the section.

"Take Bindose, our cat here, for instance, he would rather nap in the seat of apparatus in for repairs than to roam the back alleys."

Joshua Jones, of the Boston City Record, who will probably speak at the indignation meeting and who is a resident of Beacon Hill declared:

"For hard looking, tough brawling cats, come up on the Hill, to the Pine[?] ny st. section Only this morning, at 7 a. m., they staged an awful scrap, although their usual time for fighting is between 10 p. m. and 2 in the morning. Most of them, I imagine, are abandoned cats from closed homes."

A Smell o' Rum for Davy Jones' Locker



SOAKED IN RUM from many cargoes, the Moritz, laden with sand, former rum-runner, was blown up, set on fire and finally sunk 12 miles off Boston Light.

SHE HUNG ON to the last and appeared for a time as if she'd never sink. This blackened hulk, however, finally went to the bottom to stow the fragrance of her memories in Davy Jones' locker. (Staff photo.)

LUCE EMPLOYE DIES BY GAS

James H. Byron, 55, who lived in the caretaker's cottage on the Winham estate of Congressman Robert [illegible] Luce, committed suicide by inhaling illuminating gas today.

His son Walter, 22, with whom he lived, found the body in the kitchen, with fumes escaping from jets of a stove. He ran a quarter of a mile to the police station with the news.

Byron had resided on the Luce estate for many years, in a house fronting on Summer st. Work on the grounds did not provide sufficient remuneration and until a year ago he had a job as a theatre ticket taker. Since then he has been unemployed.

DEATH TAKES FR. MAGUIRE

Arrangements will be made today for the funeral of Rev. Michael F. Maguire, pastor of the parishes of St. Margaret's and the Blessed Sacrament churches, at Saugus, who died suddenly at the Carney Hospital yesterday.

He was 54 years of age and had been pastor at Saugus since 1924. Father Maguire was stricken on Sunday with appendicitis, was operated on and then suffered a relapse.

He was born in Hyde Park, and was ordained in 1901. He has served many parishes in Greater Boston in his lifetime as a priest, among his positions he was at one time head of the School for the Deaf and Dumb, at Randolph.

Holdup

Peter Gilis of 613 Watertown st., West Newton, reported to the police that he was held up and robbed of his watch and two dollars in cash by two armed bandits who accosted him opposite 613 Watertown street.

MAUDE ADAMS IS EXPECTED TO RETURN TO THE STAGE NEXT SEASON

MAY MAKE ANOTHER FILM

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor

Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service Inc.

LOS ANGELES, July 2 — Is Maude Adams in Hollywood? The report is current that she is here incognito, discussing with John Colton a play that she is to bring to the stage under the management of J. D. Williams this coming season.

Mr. Colton, the author of "The Shanghai Gesture" and adapter of "Rain" by Somerset Maugham, has been associated with motion pictures since 1922, when he went to Goldwyn to adapt "Dulcy," by Connelly and Kaufman, for Constance Talmadge. Since then he has been connected with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Paramount, Fox and First National.

Loucila O Parsons

He is known as a playwright of more than ordinary ability and Miss Adams is one of the most brilliant actresses in the world. It would be interesting to discover what combination of circumstances would bring these two celebrities together.

Miss Adams has been off the stage for several years, devoting herself to charity, to civic and welfare work. Her last picture was "Peter Ibbetson," made by Paramount in 1921. Since then she has made all arrangements to produce "Kip" with color and a new system of lighting but something went wrong and her plans never materialized.

It is possible while out here she may make one more venture in the movies, but I doubt it.

ANN PENNINGTON, of the dimpled knee and winning smile, is back in our midst. She has come back to Hollywood to dance every Monday night at the Roosevelt Hotel with Ben Bernie's orchestra.

"I just got so tired of the heat in the East that I had to come back. So I took the first office that was made me."

There is no doubt that Ann will bring a crowd any time the Lowell Hotel features her. She is very popular with her friends and those who know her name as a result of the Ziegfeld Follies.

TOD FERRIS is back, and should be proud of it. The man who wrote the original Dracula, and directed it, should be a well known star.

"I favor getting a stranger from Europe," said Tod, "and not giving his name. It takes away from the thrilling effects of the story."

I suppose we'll never know whether Tod favors Bromfield or Lardner. Just as Bromfield was going to write a story for me he bought the Saturday Evening Post and sold it to Sam Goldwyn. I take it that means the original Ronald Colman story is all off. They can move rapidly in this motion picture business.

FAY BAINTER, petite, rather wistful in appearance and charming, was the center of attraction at Wesley Ruggles' beach party on Sunday. Fay, I am told, had treats made for "Cimarron," and she is greatly favored by Wesley Ruggles, the director for the part. Estelle Taylor will play Dixie Lee, one of the most colorful characters in Edna Ferber's book. Richard Dix, who plays "Cimarron," has a fine growth of hair, according to Miss Ferber's description. He was also at the party. Eileen Percy among the guests, stopped to tell me I had made a faux pas. She said Douglas Fairbanks has never made a picture called "Reaching for the Moon" in which she was the leading lady. The story of the picture I made, I'm certain, was the same, but my name as star was omitted.

TAYLOR HOLMES IS AT HOME FOLE any panes he has in not being called in to play "Bunker Bean." his greatest stage success. He has been invited by R K O to direct Alice Lake and Ince Carold in it. He certainly ought to be able to tell young Lake what to do about the part, for Miss Carol looks very well. She seems to have entirely recovered from her recent operation. I saw her at the Hoot Gibson-Sally Eilers wedding, and I thought she looked unusually attractive.

* * *

WITH ALL THE YEARS that Otis Skinner played "The Honor of the Family" on the stage, he certainly ought to be able to give First National some hopeful advice. Maybe that is why they are making plans to put on the screen Balzac's famous story while Skinner is in their midst. However, he will not play the part. Walter Huston, who only recently was put under contract by First National will have the lead. What a versatile actor Huston is. He seems to have more of a variety of roles than any actor in Hollywood. Most of the big actors specialize in one particular characterization, but the sky is the limit so far as Huston is concerned.

POLLY MORAN'S INFECTIOUS laugh and wisecracks will be missing from Hollywood for a month at least. Polly has come to Mount Clemens, Michigan, to enter a hospital where she will have an operation performed on her nose. It is considerably out of the way for a comedienne to have her nose bobbed, but nothing is too much for stars and the nuisance she pulls off at every party at which she is a guest. Polly hopes to be back in Hollywood by the time her sister, Marie Dressler returns from Europe so that the two gals can start working on a comedy outlined by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Probably Marie will make "Dark Star" before the Dressler-Moran comedy, although I doubt it. With the way "Min and Bill" has been going all over the country, exhibitors are asking for more stories on the same order.

THIS PROVES SHIP FOLKS KNOW THEIR MOVIES

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ
ABOARD THE UNITED FRUIT liner San Gil in tropic waters

Motion pictures at sea! Well, why not? They have all the comforts of home, plus an ozone that you simply can't get in the city and about all the luxuries of life that are worth while. So why not the movies?

Yes, the movies are as live a topic at sea as back home ashore. Some day they'll have television and then well go sailing, over the water to Charlie — I mean Sopwith — and be able to see and hear the latest Pathe News. But back to the movies on board ship. Is there interested in it? Is there? Capt. Mathew Johnston says! By the bye, he's out out for a motion camera, for he is strong-featured and every inch the Old Salt. Out of his office I accurate could carve a movie adventure tales; Capt. Mathew started in as a boy on Cape Horners, sailed on clipper ships over the seven seas, and at 25 years ago quit the Flying Dutchmen for steamship service. He likes his films.

But let somebody mention Greta Garbo, and you get a flow of conversation. Deck chairs are brought "into a huddle," and then the gossip starts. Hours it keeps up; stars as brilliant as a myriad of diamonds pop out of the sky. Those one-reelers are the real stars; eternally they shine, while the luminaries of the films flash into fade. Where are the stars of yesterday?

Harleigh Schultz

ALL ON BOARD WILL talk films until dawn. Here we are, voyaging for whole perfect days of wondrous sea-scapes and cool breezes, and of all the topics the ever fre-best to bring delight is motion pictures. I have wondered at the intelligent grasp these folk have of the art of the industry. As to personalities of screen players the latest flapper aboard "puts it all over" the writer. Their knowledge of age color of eyes, hair, type of eye etc. amazes me.

* * *

A SHIP IS QUITE LIKE a city in miniature. It is ideally governed, the people are in general contented and happy. They might be looked upon as a group typical of a larger community's thought and reaction. It might be interesting to observe, from this angle, that opinion of young and old aboard the San Gil indicates these general truths:

That Rudy Vallee is still popular.

That Beryl Mercer is deeply appreciated by the movie audiences as a first class actress.

That the silent films, which are almost all one sees in these regions, have tremendous appeal still.

That the public is about fed up on the singers. (Musical films and television) comes along to stimulate anew that interest that was so pronounced in the early months of the talkies.

That the English and Scotch folk on the ship think that Charlie Murray was one of the greatest of film comedians.

GOSSIP ALONG NEW YORK'S RIALTO

NEW YORK, July 2

Two more plays being groomed for next season have been put in rehearsal. Be a Man began work on Monday and Sweakhoff Productions started the preparation of Red Love.

Beauman" was written by R. K. Lauren. It is a likely addition to the arrivals of July 1st. It will be shown at Brighton Beach July 14 and should appear on Broadway soon after.

Charles D. Brown and Cora Witherspoon have the leading roles, with Edward Pawley, Rachel Hartzell, Mark Smith and Francis Fraunie among their supporters.

"Red Love" is an adaptation of the Moscow Art Theater comedy that was more lengthily called "The Sparrows of the Circle." Valentin Kataev did the adapting. Charles Calloway, Cynthia Stuart, Gita Zucker, Edward Colebrook and Norman Stewart will be among the players.

Madeline Cameron has succeeded Genevieve Tobin in "Fifty Million Frenchmen." Miss Cameron is the personable young woman who had such a good time in "Hit the Deck" and "Follow Thru."

Joseph Smith and Charles Dale, lately of "Mendel, Inc.," are returning to vaudeville and their old favorite act, the Avon Comedy Four, this week. They will move into the Palace Theater Saturday to begin a limited tour of the R. K. O. houses. There will be some of the cast of "Mendel" with them.

"Stepping Sisters" has returned to the old homestead, the Royale Theater, after a week next door at the Masque. Albert Bannister tried hard to laugh as he watched this movement from one house to another. The theaters are the same alley, but moving is not so easy for all that.

A stock company transferred its scenery from the sidewalk to a truck. Then the scenery very carefully was lifted from the truck back to the sidewalk again. That made the transfer traditional proper, legitimate, and no doubt, expensive. There was something laughable about it all, but not to Producer Bannister. It seems he was thinking something about a hit.

Artist Is Honored at Theater on Cape

Rockwell Kent, well-known artist, was honored at a reception given last night at Dennis, Cape Cod, when the first murals — and incidentally his first decoration for any theater — was shown to the throng of the new Cape Cinema, an art motion picture house just completed. Dennis, Jo Mielziner, New York scenic signer, who collaborated with Kent on the murals, which are said to be the world's largest single canvas, was also guest of honor at a dinner given before the premiere by Mrs. Robert B. Tweedy of Wianno.

Gertrude Dolan Puts on Revue at Bowdoin

Gertrude Dolan, Boston dancer, is producing the Bowdoin Sq. Follies this week. For many years Miss Dolan graced the stage as a dancing artist and her originality is displayed in this offering in which 40 girls and boys take part.

Young Uptown Artist Gives Byrd Portrait

ALICE BRADY HEADS CAST ON CAPE

The Cape Playhouse at Dennis, Cape Cod, one of the most successful summer theaters in the country, has opened its fourth season, with Alice Brady starring in the comedy success, "Enter Madame." As a temperamental prima donna, Miss Brady has one of her most colorful roles and a strong contrast to the trio of serious dramatic parts she has played this season on Broadway — in "Karl and Anna" and "The Game of Love and Death" for the Theater Guild, and in "Love, Honor and Betray" for A. H. Woods.

Also this gifted daughter of William A. Brady has a chance in "Enter Madame" to live up to the title recently conferred upon her by the artist and fashion authority, Helen Dryden, as one of the half dozen best dressed actresses in America."

Screen Who's Who

John Wray, who has the role of Himmelstoss in "All Quiet on the Western Front," at the Majestic, was born in Philadelphia in 1889. He graduated from the Catholic high school. After an experience in amateur plays he emerged in stock company activities in Yonkers, Toledo, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Rockford and Springfield, Illinois. He work on the New York stage has been mostly in heavy crook parts, such as "The Enemy," "Silence" and "Tin Pan Alley." His first picture work was with the United Artists in the picturization of the latter play. He was recently seen here in the title role of Universal's "Czar of Broadway."

HIGH GRAD TC DIRECT SHOW FOR DAY

It is not often that a young man not yet out of his teens, and only a few days ago a graduate of high school, assumes a position at a salary of $25 a week, managing interests valued at $4,500,000. But that is the man-sized assignment which falls to Edward H. Lawton, Jr., of 89 Clement ave., West Roxbury, a graduate of this year's class at Roxbury Latin school. On next Tuesday, young Lawton will for the entire day have complete charge of Loew's State theater.

THRONGS SEE NEW AUSTIN BANTAM CAR

With all local attendance records broken by the rush of car owners, prospective car buyers and interested spectators, the J. C. Harvey Co., local distributors for the American Austin Car Co., are prepared for a greater welcome next week for the bantam Austin car, new transportation unit, now on exhibition at the Harvey Co. showrooms on Beacon st. for the first time in Boston.

"We feel that the exceptional interest shown in the bantam Austin car in Boston is an index of the new place in transportation which the bantam promises to find in New England," says Mr. Harvey. "As a car to run around in we are sure it will fill a long-felt need. The exhibition of the new models will continue as a permanent feature at the Harvey showrooms and retail deliveries will begin this week.

"The Austin will enable the average car owner to buy a bantam and keep the big car too, saving the larger vehicle for times when large scale transportation is needed. Delivered fully equipped, including spare tire, bumpers and windshield wiper, the bantam purchased as a 'second car' will actually pay for itself in operating economies plus what is saved in the depreciating of the large family car.

"The models include a coupe, a swanky little sport roadster and an Austin special delivery car that will mark a new low record in the cost of automobile delivery service."

The new car product of the American Austin Car Company of Lafayette, Indiana, is an American product financed by American capital and built by American workmen in the company plant at Butler, Pa.

The worldwide reputation of the bantam car for its easy economy and economy has placed the "debit" of the American Austin and advance contracts calling for more than 185,000 bantam Austins have already been accepted by the company. The little car speeds upon on pennies—some 40 miles to a gallon of gas and from 20,000 to 40,000 miles on a set of tires. It is exceptionally economical in its use of oil.

But what promises to be the sensation of [illegible] the bantam car for its easy riding qualities. Low slung [illegible] wheels [illegible] are so [illegible] that [illegible] Since the Austin engineers [illegible] to occupy the same position in American motordom that [illegible] abroad now occupies on the lead-ing motorways of the world.

FULL-PRESSURE OILING FOR OAKLAND

Much of the credit for the trouble-free stamina displayed by the Oakland 8 just during the last year or so has been in the hands of owners should be given to its high-efficiency full pressure oiling system, according to Dwight Hess, general manager of the Oakland Co. of New England.

Located below the oil level in the oil pan, a powerful gear type oil pump supplies lubricant under a pressure of 25 to 30 pounds per square inch to crankshaft main bearings connecting rod lower end bearings, camshaft bearings, valve rocker arm bearings, the timing chain and, through rifle-drilled connecting rods, to the piston pin bearings.

Thus every vital point in the engine is protected by a high-pressure supply of oil. Every drop of oil sprayed from the sides of the connecting rod bearings provides lubrication for pistons and cylinder walls, cams and rocker arm rollers.

The oil pump obtains its power from an extension of the vertical distributor shaft, which in turn is actuated by gearing on the rear end of the camshaft. These gears are bathed in a constant stream of oil from the camshaft rear bearing oil line. Oil pressure may be controlled by a self-cleaning oil regulator located in the center of the crankcase and adjustable from outside the engine.

To prevent oil from piling up on the cleaning screen and hampering circulation when the engine is started during cold weather, the overflow from the oil pressure regulator is returned immediately to the oil pan without passing through the screen. This screen also provides 92 square inches of cleaning area. Several steel baffles in the oil pan prevent the oil from sloshing.

A safety feature is provided by an arrangement which automatically stops the engine in the remote event that the oil pump should fail to function. The shearing of a small pin would stop the distributor and halt the engine, thus preventing possible damage from lack of oil.

FORD TRUCKS IN NEW MODELS

New Ford Model AA trucks and Model A light delivery cars have been announced by the Ford Motor Co. and are on display by Ford dealers throughout the country.

Changes in the trucks are principally in the front end, which has been completely re-designed, and in the cab. Lines of the front resemble closely those of the improved passenger cars introduced in December. The radiator is low, fenders are wide and flowing and a black cowl strip adds a note of distinction.

Open or enclosed cabs may be had and the cabs will fit either the Model AA or the Model A chassis.

The enclosed cab is all steel and combines utility with good appearance. It is low in appearance, yet with ample head room. The roof is covered with double texture rubber top material. Cushions are trimmed in dark cobra grain artificial leather in plain panel style.

DINNER MARKS SALES CONTEST

The entire personnel of the Daniels Chevrolet Co., of Watertown, attended a dinner given by Harry Daniels at the Weber-Duck Inn, last night, to celebrate the closing of a highly successful car sale contest held during the latter part of June. It was revealed that about all used cars were sold and prizes were distributed during the evening.

Many guests from the various Chevrolet branches were present.

Another Nash Success

Stepdaughters of War

believe me. I can surmise what I choose, but I definitely do not know. "I—I was half-asleep."

"You were the one to drag Skinner from Tonkington when she vulgarly attacked her. You were not half-asleep."

I became calm again.

"Skinner must have had some terrific provocation. What was it?"

"I am as ignorant as you are, Commandant."

"That is a lie. What was it?"

"I do not know, Commandant."

"You do."

"I was half-asleep."

And there I stick. She crossexamins me until I nearly scream. Now and again she switches over to Skinny, who takes refuge in tears. Frost weeps continuously. Commandant finally dismisses me. I have acquired a month's punishment duties, but I could not get through them in that time if there were 48 hours to a day. Nevertheless my head though bloody is unbowed. I feel I have got more than a little of my own back. I sink exhausted on my bed.

Tosh has the kettle boiling. She makes some tea. Revived I tell the horrible details. Rita Potato has not arrived as yet, but Tosh has left a note on the board. We speculate as to the identity of the policeman. Tosh threatens awful retribution if she can trace the source of the leakage. Who does Commandant favor most? We cannot think. She treats everyone with impartial hellishness, excepting perhaps myself——

A silence falls.

"We're wrong, Tosh," I break out at last. "We ought to tell Commandant. Carrying tales is rotten, but there are some tales that ought to be carried—and you can carry that honour business too far——"

"No," Tosh frowns. "I was a fool to let Skinny know I knew in the first place. Personal dislike's a queer thing—I've always loathed that girl and I bet, and at her just because I scathed her. Her morals don't affect me one way or the other. You couldn't shock me if you tried.

"I should have shut my mouth, none of my business at all. Anyhow, let Commandant find out for herself. She rather fancies herself as a detective, remember old Thummus? Pushed home at two hours' notice for being caught in an am buisere with a man? The man wasn't pushed home, of course, but the two—remember it? Well, that would be a gentle ruffle of wind compared with this one. Now—let Commandant do her own dirty work—if she'd had had two ounces of sense she'd have twigged Skinny months ago, blasted fools these females they put in charge—all bust and no brains.

"Why should I get mixed in it for—I'm too wise a bird. Commandant is dying to sack Skinny, ever since she found Skinny sneaking back from the beach convoys before final permission was given at the station, only she daren't sack her because Skinny Senior is a big pot at the W. O. and he'd make trouble and perhaps lose Commandant the fattest job she's ever had—tih, she'd have a good excuse to sack Skinny, simply love it—well, I'm not being the scapegoat and providing it. Immorality, what a chance! Doesn't it make you sick?

"Skinny as much as you can, drive your bus as cruelly as you like, crash your gears to hell, muck your engine till it's in the mechanics' hands half its time, jolt the life out of your wounded, shirk as much as you can without actively coming up against the powers that be—and you won't be sent home. But an hint of immorality and back you go to England in degrees as fast as the pucker can take you.

"As if morality mattered two hoots when it comes to conveying wounded men. Personally, if I were choosing women to drive heavy ambulances their moral characters wouldn't worry me. It would be 'Are you a first-class driver?' not 'Are you a first-class virgin?' The biggest wench or the biggest saint—what the hell does it matter as long as they put up a decent performance behind the steering wheel and can keep their engines clean?

"You can't get up to much immorality with dying men, can you? They give me a pain at headquarters the way they've all got morality on the brain. Thrumms the sinner was like an angel with an ambulance of wounded—my sainted R F has started more hemorrhages than any ambulance driver of her size and weight in the whole British Expeditionary Force, I should think——"

She walks up and down, smoking furiously.

The door bangs open.

"I say, what a storm in a teacup," gasps Rita Potato. "Commandant is certain there's something fearfully sinister behind all this, Tosh. She grabbed me as I got in and started questioning me and when I told her all you'd done was to taunt Skinny for not being able to attract men——"

"You didn't tell her that—"

"Yes, why not? That's what it's all about, isn't it?"

Tosh and I look blankly at one another. Gawd's teeth," ejaculates Tosh.

"Well, she wants you at once," says Rita Potato.

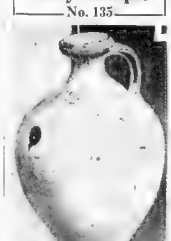
Warm Reception for New Willys-Knight

The reception accorded the new Willys-Knight "87," recently introduced by Willys-Overland, indicates that this car will prove the most popular low priced Willys-Knight ever brought out by the Toledo manufacturer. It is said to possess commanding comfort and smooth performance to the $1000 price class heretofore existing only in the higher priced models, says Irving Clarke, general manager Boston Whippet-Knight Corp.

Not only has the public taken a marked fancy to the new Knight engined car but Willys-Overland dealers likewise are enthusiastic.

Daily Antique No. 135



MRS. ELEANOR JENNINGS of the Ambassador Apartments Hotel, 2127 Cambridge st., Cambridge, offers for your attention today a Roman vase said to be 2000 years old. It was unearthed in Cologne, Germany, forty years ago. It had been buried in graves in the Roman era, says history. The twin of this vase is in the museum at Cologne, Germany.

Boston Evening American is publishing photographs of interesting antiques. Owners of antiques of 4 should or over in America or in Europe or association are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. If a photograph is not available, the American will send a cameraman to photograph the antique, providing the owner lives in Greater Boston. Address the Antique Editor, Boston Evening American, 8 Winthrop sq., Boston, Mass.

RUBBER GIVEN RIGID TESTS

While testing rubber in the Chrysler engineering laboratories under extreme cold or extreme heat, extension flexing, compression or tension are carried on continually to make sure that this material will stand up in motor car service. Since 40 to 60 pounds of rubber exclusive of tires are used in all Chrysler cars, the importance of these tests to the car owner can be appreciated says Allan Fay, vice-president C. F. Fay Co.

One machine gives rubber spring shackles millions of oscillations at any angle and pressure they must operate in Chrysler cars, to make sure of their long and satisfactory performance. A bushing recently completed 10,000,000 oscillations—equivalent to more than [illegible] miles of car operation and 100,000 miles is a busy goal for every spring shackle under test. To interpret this movement in car miles, a recording device is fastened to cars under test which indicates each movement of the spring under [illegible] road conditions.

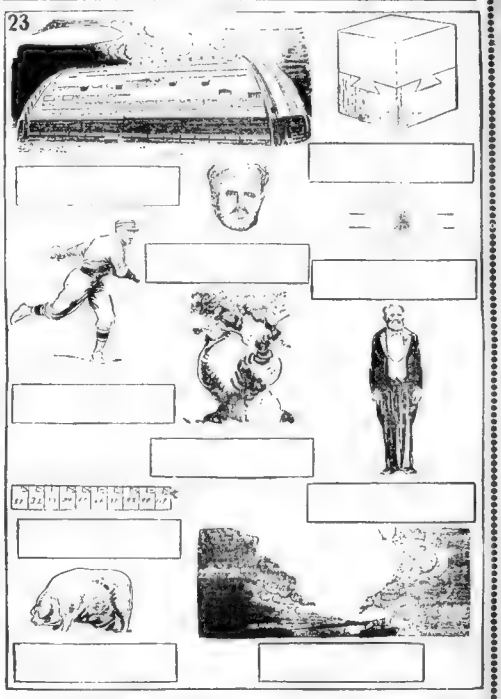
Ripley's WORD HUNT

$2500 In Cash Prizes FREE!

There's still time to start this fascinating game. Back numbers of Boston Sunday Advertiser are obtainable for 10c each, plus 2c postage (beginning with first 6 sets in June 15 issue), and Boston American past issues will be sent for 2c, plus 2c postage. All you need to do is to match up the descriptions (which you will find in the Classified Ads) with the right pictures. There is nothing to write—and the rules are simple.

"Believe It Or Not" By Ripley



FOLLOW THESE RULES

1 Everyone is eligible to participate in the Word Hunt except employes of the Boston Evening American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser and members of their families.

2 Each picture in the set to be numbered has been assigned a number. Each picture is numbered in the Classified Ad columns.

3 The Word Hunt consists in finding the descriptions in the Classified Ads corresponding to the pictures in the set which you wish to enter. The words making up each description will appear in a single unit in one of the Ads.

4 Read all the pictures until you have three complete sets of ten each—the pictures in all. Then send them in to Ripley's "Word Hunt" Editor, Box 185, Boston, Mass.

5 All entries must be postmarked not later than midnight Thursday, July 31. No entries will be returned to senders.

6 One thousand five hundred dollars in cash prizes will be awarded in the complete solution of the Word Hunt. Duplicate prizes will be paid in the event of ties according to rules governing contests of this character.

7 A committee of judges will be appointed by the Boston Evening American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser to determine the accuracy of contestants. All contests agree to accept the decisions of these judges as final.

8 It is not necessary to purchase the Boston Evening American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser to compete. This newspaper may be examined at its office or at the public libraries free of charge, and if you wish you may copy or trace the pictures from the Boston Evening American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser and then assemble the sets from the copies you have made.

9 In case there are no complete sets of correct pictures, duplicate awards will be given to the person submitting the largest percentage of correct pictures. In case [illegible] are made [illegible] the [illegible] will be awarded [illegible] if it was that the contestants will receive similar awards.

In the Boston Evening American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser reserve the right to make any changes in or additions to these conditions that it may deem necessary for fairly and properly conducting this project, and the decision of the Judges on any question which may arise will be absolutely final, and the entering of a participant is a complete acceptance of all conditions and regulations made or to be made. DO NOT SEND SETS OF PICTURES UNTIL ALL HAVE APPEARED.

Raquel to Convert Queer, Rich Woman to Wear Correct Fashions

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Raquel Rojas lost as the Arizona desert and Jack Farrell, the man who loves her, to go to New York, where her exotic beauty attracts the attention of the noted fashion expert, Alphonse Courbet. He selects her as his principal model and is now taking her to Paris. A sporting millionaire, Bertie Adams, pursues Raquel, but Alphonse acts as a jealous protector. He is annoyed one day when he comes upon his star beauty talking to a man with horn-rimmed glasses who sits in the adjoining deck-chair.

CHAPTER 31

Alphonse was reassured when Raquel remarked to him, quite casually, that the man in the horn-rimmed glasses had seen fit to apologize to her for his incessant coughing.

"He's the type that is content to take life second-hand," said Alphonse. "From the written word. Like the man who takes his food in capsules. Life predigested."

"It doesn't seem to agree with him," Raquel said.

"It doesn't agree with anybody. To gulp pleasure, happiness, pain out of a book. One must know them, feel them, do one's own digesting. Books should be reminders of experience, not experience in and of themselves."

Raquel knew Alphonse was thinking aloud. Well, he should know. There were few experiences a book could offer him he had not himself known and felt. He skimmed the cream off of life. It was written in every line of his face.

Madame Pauline Whinig miserably to Raquel, clutching after his errant fancy. Had he dragged Madame Pauline dry? Made her the dregs of a woman she was?

Alphonse Fair?

Not So to Greta

It was difficult to believe he had done so. He was so unfailingly courteous, kind, thoughtful. Still there was that night he kissed her hand when he came to the suite. She could feel the kiss even now, as she felt the clinging lips of Farrell the night he told her good-by on the fringe of the desert.

And Alphonse's white-hot anger the night he blamed Greta because Bertie Adams, by some queer quirk of his fogged brain, had found his way into her room.

His errant fancy. Winging to a bright flower, settling lightly, drinking deep, draining the perfume, the freshness. Winging away again when the perfume suffered or the petals of the flower faded.

She was one flower he would not rifle. She would fold up her petals as he would not girl at the heart of her. Let the humming-bird beat its wings against her in vain.

"There is in the collection for you a gown of green," Alphonse told her. "The color of jade. Built of a special satin that clings. Extreme perhaps, and sophisticated. You can carry it off with dash, even if you are a neophyte in worldliness, ma petite. We shall try it this evening."

Raquel wondered why Alphonse had chosen the gown. There was a reason. Fashion's supreme dictator never toyed with Beauty this way unless there was an objective he wished to gain

He saw the question in her eyes, alight with the verve for conquest.

"You have done well," he said confidentially. "A client of Chez Alphonse is aboard. She came to me this morning, for a conference. She has ordered a duplicate of everything you have worn since you came on the ship."

"Then I—why I must be passing my way," Raquel said, delighted with the prospect.

Alphonse's fine eyes swept over her, patted it approvingly, affectionately.

"You had already done as much, cherie," he said, "before you embarked."

He had given her more than words. Emotion

"I like to know I can do something beside just look—"

"Beautiful!"

"Well, yes."

"That is right. Beauty is like the dress of which I spoke. A jade. So soon rumpled, so easily frayed. But spirit, genius, even a profession or a trade, they have both beauty and durability. In them beauty does not fade. It grows the richer for use."

"You think I can grow?" Raquel's eager face sought truth and truth only in the answer.

On Tiptoe

Raquel Is Poised

"Yes. As a fine healthy plant in the rain and the sun. You have already grown, inches."

"I want to grow a foot," greedily.

"That will be as you make it."

"Oh, I shall try. If you will show me the way."

"There are many ways."

"I know—"

"And one is now at hand."

What did he mean to ask of her? Keenly, she poised on tiptoe, breathless, wary.

There was enough of the master in him to keep her waiting. Then he went on, quite as if he had not sensed her anxiety.

"The client of whom I spoke. She has asked to meet you."

"She does not like the clothes you wear."

Raquel bristled. Why had this woman selected her for a patteren then? Should to insist her, as Alphonse's confidence about the order proved?

"If she were in position to indulge herself," said Alphonse, "she would look like nothing so much as an ill-formed shapeless girl armed with bad taste. She is one of my most difficult clients. It is almost impossible to keep her from adorning loose bags instead of dresses."

"Then why do you bother with her?" There could be no profit, either artistic or material, in loose bags, Raquel thought.

Convert Her

Raquel Sees Fun

"It pleases me to do so," Alphonse chuckled, "she has the essentials of a great beauty. And she has unlimited means wherewith to mold the essentials into a finished product."

Raquel began to feel something of the creator's fine frenzy in his possession.

"It will be fun to convert her," she said.

"She is already converted."

"Then it will be easy——"

"I don't know, the can never tell. A woman in her state of mind. One day she is a burning brand. The next day, a lump of cold clay."

"Why?" Raquel was confounded by the contradiction of the woman Alphonse drew for her. "If she has money—if she can be beautiful ——"

"Ah, but she has not the essence, the very soul of true joy. That she cannot buy. But she knows it is there. She has had it. Now it has slipped away. It eludes her. She hopes to win it back with beauty, with spirit. It may be that it will succeed. We must help her."

"But you have not told me what it is she hopes to win," Raquel reminded, aglow with the promise of adventure.

"That she shall tell you herself." Alphonse's smile was enigmatic. "Tonight. I have arranged that you meet."

Gifts for Graduate

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN

1. My young man friend is graduating this spring and I want to give him a nice present. I had planned to give him a large picture of myself, but rather am afraid it would not be appropriate.

2. Will you please suggest something that would be in good taste.

A. M. D.

1 I believe that I agree with your mother. Somehow, it doesn't seem to me, either, that your photograph would be such an appropriate present to give for this occasion. Why don't you give your photograph to him at some later time?

2. A handsome leather portfolio, heavy and masculine-looking, would be an excellent present, I think; one for his desk, or to carry.

Young Man Writes First

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN

By reading your column one feels that you are an impartial and strict judge, so I am coming to you with my little problem.

On a recent short trip I became acquainted with a young man. When I was about to leave, he asked me if I would write to him. I thought, and told him so, that he should write to me first. However, he insisted that I should write to him first. Which one of us was right? B. A. M

Thank you—that is a high compliment.

You were right. The young man asks for the privilege of writing to the girl and then naturally he takes advantage of the right that she gives him, by writing first.

Giving and Receiving

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN

In giving wedding anniversary or valentine gifts, should the husband give the wife gifts, or should they give each other gifts?

In the spirit of "It is more blessed to give," each would probably wish to give gifts to the other.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers).

Panama Hat Stages Revival in Mode

By ANN ARDEN

(ANN ARDEN broadcasts latest style news over WHDH every Tuesday and Thursday at 11 a. m.)

NEAT AS a pin is the trim little panama hat that has come back from fashion's yesterday to enjoy such a popular today. Flanked on all sides by the exciting, feminine looking hats of the moment, the 1930 panama adheres to a traditional simplicity.

DO NOT think for a moment, though, that the old panama is merely brought up to date by adding a freshness and a bit of ribbon or such. No indeed, if you choose a new panama you must cast a critical eye upon its crown, its brim and its trimming. It must be just so, to meet this summer's requirements.

DETAILS—To go into detail about your panama hat. First of all, crowns are shallow! Some have a rounded look, others are somewhat squarish, depending greatly on the brim width. And not content to be just well molded to the head, the crown introduces creases—either right through the center or running criss-cross, too. Bright embroidered arrows or the intimate little touch of one's own monogram are further crowning notes of smartness.

BRIMS in hats there is almost as much diversity as in crowns. Some are shallow in front, flaring to the back. Some are mushroom and still others are uncompromisingly sailor-like in their straightness.

THE PANAMA hat pictured has a rather wide brim, becomingly turned down. The black ribbon band has a bow center back, accented by a bunch of small, gaily-colored feathers flat against the crown.

BANDS of course you know, are chosen to team up with individual color schemes. And by the use of differently colored bands, one hat can cleverly do duty for any number of costumes. Lingerie touches are given in the same way to carry out a dominant tone or tones.

How to Keep Well -:- By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Insulin Has Lessened the Fear of Diabetes

Today we do not fear diabetes as we used to do. By the discovery of insulin and its application to the disease, we know how to keep the disease in check. Insulin is not, of course, a cure for the disease, but it does enable the body to care for sugar as it could not do before.

Dr. Copeland

Diabetes is of two kinds: in one there is too much sugar present in the urine. In the other no sugar is present, but the quantity of urine passed is enormous.

In this latter type of the disease, sometimes as much as several quarts or even gallons of urine may be passed in a day. The normal quantity is about one quart in 24 hours.

It is natural that so much water extracted from the system should create a great thirst, and thirst is one of the first symptoms of this disease. To be thirsty every few minutes, and at night, is a suspicious symptom. Steady loss of flesh, coupled in diabetes and indigestion is an early symptom. The first thing to do is to have an examination of the urine to ascertain if the trouble is present.

The presence of sugar in the urine does not mean that you cannot handle sugar as it should. That is the beginning of real trouble.

Besides indigestion, loss of flesh and thirst, the skin is not clear. Boils and pimples are apt to appear. Repeated boils are indications of a run-down condition. Terrible itching of the skin is another sign of diabetes. The nerves are affected. There may be severe cramps in the calves of the legs, or neuralgia. One may have headache.

As the disease progresses the loss of flesh continues. The strength and vigor diminish. Where the diabetes is of long standing the eyes become inflamed and troublesome. Sometimes a cataract develops, a form known as "diabetes cataract."

Much has been accomplished by dieting. If insulin is used it may not be necessary to diet. It is a good thing, however, to reduce the sugar carrying foods. The first care should be to eat less starches and sugar than it has been the practice to have.

Because you have diabetes is no reason why you should not live a normal and busy life, with due care to diet, moderation in all things and care of the body.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. A. B. Q—I cannot walk any distance without losing my breath. I am 39 years of age and have been doctoring for a heart condition for two years. What would you advise?

A.—The symptom in question is due to the heart condition. Avoid undue exertion and fatigue and be careful not to over-eat. Your doctor will advise any further treatment you may need.

A Reader. Q.—What causes an itching over the body? There is no sign of a rash of any kind.

A.—This condition may be due to constipation, auto-intoxication, intestinal disturbance, poor nutrition, over eating, or to some food poisoning. Rest, enforcement and certain diseases of the nervous system may also cause this condition.

Thank You. Q—Is it serious if the soft spot on the top of the baby's head is not gone before the child has reached the age of two and a half years of age?

A.—Have the baby examined there may be a touch of rickets at the source of the trouble. This condition is usually cleared up before the age. Proper treatment will overcome the trouble.

Listen, World! -:- By Elsie Robinson

Give Yourself!

Says she to me—"I read your articles regularly but they always par me. I admit you have a few bright thoughts but you spend everything by talking about yourself and your experiences. Don't you know that is bad taste?"

Elsie Robinson

Yep, lady, I know it's bad taste. And I understand also how riled it must make you. Here I am, a mere lump of mortality, same as all the rest of you. I have been taught, as you were taught, that to speak of oneself was the height of bad breeding. So I kept my griefs and blunders to myself as if they were something unique and holy. And in time I came to believe that they really were.

But presently life shoved me right into the thick of things and I got a big job. I discovered that I was not the only one there were millions of other grieving, blundering human beings.

And there wasn't a particle of difference between their griefs and mine. Foolishness was all of a piece—I had nothing on the other fellow and the other fellow had nothing on me.

So a little understanding came to me and a great deal of pity. I wanted to help these other people whose lives were as public as mine. And I tried to help them in the ways I had been taught to help—by refined, well-bred ways which all ladies are supposed to use.

But I couldn't get my stuff across. No one wanted my pearly speeches. No one cared a hoot about my wise advice. What we needs to them? They had enough of their own. And how could good manners help when a fellow is in a jam? They needed something warmer, quicker—

And so, lady, I got all over being well-bred. And nowadays I don't give a rap what I say or how I say it, as long as it helps and lands. For I have discovered that what the other fellow needs is not words but me—myself.

Me, with my fine and my foul, rashness, my selfishness and cowardice, my aching heart and my so frequently empty head. For that gift of my muddled self is the only thing that will help him with his muddled self and that feeling of our common misery, mere sympathy and inspiration from a fellow-sufferer, is more than all the wise words ever spoken.

So, lady, don't be afraid to give yourself. Don't be afraid to be human. Don't be afraid to be yourself. Don't be afraid to be a fool. Don't be afraid to be wise. Don't be afraid to be anything that you are. Don't be afraid to be nothing that you are not.

The Beauty Box

BY HELEN FOLLETT

When chewing food, use all the teeth, first one side and then the other. Hard foods are good for the teeth, especially hard breads. Often people have deep pores the cleansing should be brushed. They form tartar, which breeds bacteria. Chewing with one set of facial muscles is likely to overdevelop one side of the face. That's something else to remember.

What has become of the baby stare? It has gone completely out of style if it ever was in vogue. Is doubtful. The girl with the efficient expression isn't so smarty either; she is likely to get a hard look on her face. The interesting face is the one that lights up now and then, that changes. Cupid seldom takes a second glance at a woman who looks like an image. There is also the machine-gun face, but of that, another time.

A red nose is sometimes due to a cutaneous affliction, but more often is caused by drastic astringents. The gal with the flamboyant nose should avoid rich gravies, highly spiced and salty food, also beans and peas. She needs more fruits and green vegetables, more water, more sleep, more fresh air.

Well-developed women should wear a bust supporter. Not only for the sake of a fine figure, but to protect the delicate glands of the breasts. A properly fitted brassiere should be worn by every woman who is more than normally developed.

Through anatomical defects a woman may fall far short of the standard of beauty. Yet attractiveness through the development of the mind and the spirit is possible to anyone with a seeing eye. The commonest beauty ill is lack of charm, the dull, wearing personality. You know! The woman who talks endlessly about nothing. Her children, her ills, her troubles! She sets nerves to sizzling and her acquaintances grow tired of her.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Unsweetened Truths

One man makes love so exactly like another, these days, that a girl experiences sensations of the most all graduates of the same Correspondence School of Courtship.

A married woman was overheard to say what her husband said when he proposed to her because "you are the exact counterpart of my ideal."

What makes a woman maddest is the way all men glare at her with that "woman's-place-is-in-the-home" expression, when she is trying to drive a car through traffic.

Fame is a fickle mistress who deludes you with honeys fawns and flatters until you cannot without pity see her desert you for a newer and fresher face. A sweet unselfish, tolerant disposition may get you into heaven but apparently it is no passport for a fine rich old man who can't get a move on easily.

It is better to love foolishly than too wisely and wiser to love too well than too coldly.

Jazz and a pocket-flask may make the world go 'round for a little while, but religion and love as the motor, everything soon comes to a dead standstill.

Probably, woman was called "the weaker vessel" because sooner or later she lets everything "leak out."

At this time of the year almost any man would rather eat a girl who bores him than talk seriously with one who dazzles him.

Suggestions for Holiday

From Martha Lee's Wednesday Morning Broadcast over WHDH, the Boston Evening American Station

Here's a menu for those who have been receiving orders for suggestions for a Fourth of July dinner.

Martha Lee

The burden of the composition of the menu for the Fourth of July dinner usually falls upon the housewife. Many of the men are content to leave the matter entirely in the hands of the women. Many of the women are content to leave the matter entirely in the hands of the men. And so it is left to the cook.

In order to enjoy as much of the day as possible in company with the family and friends, the dinner should be served at the same time as usual and as early in the afternoon as possible. Let's suppose a menu or two and with directions for the preparation of the same and I'll see if you can find it helpful.

FOURTH OF JULY DINNER

MENU

Large Strawberries with Powdered Sugar

Combination Meat and Vegetable Loaf

Lettuce and Cucumber Whole Wheat Sandwiches

Ice Cream Sandwiches

Coffee

Spiced Gingerale

COMBINATION MEAT AND VEGETABLE LOAF: Mix well together three-fourths of a pound of ground round steak, one-half pound of ground broiled ham, three-fourths of a cup of dry crumbs, one and one-fourth teaspoons of salt, one-eighth teaspoon of pepper. Add one can of vegetable soup and two slightly beaten eggs. Put into a greased loaf pan and lay two slices of bacon on top. Bake for an hour in a moderate oven. Cool, shred, either not or cold. Serve six.

SPICED GINGERALE: Mix together four whole cloves, one-fourth of a teaspoon of ginger, one-half a teaspoon of cinnamon, one-third of a cup of honey, juice and grated rind of two lemons, one cup of orange juice, one cup of pineapple syrup, one cup of water and let stand in ice box for at least an hour or more. Strain. Add two pints of cold ginger ale and serve. Makes 12 to 15 punch glasses or eight regular glasses.

Faithfully yours,

Martha Lee

MRS. FANNIE EAMES, 18 Lindenwood rd., Stoneham, Mass., sends this luscious recipe

STRAWBERRY MACAROON PUDDING

1 tbsp. gelatine
¼ cup cold water
¼ cup boiling milk
2 pt. heavy cream
2 eggs
1 cup confectioner's sugar
1 pt. strawberries
6 drs. macaroons
1 tsp. vanilla

Soak the gelatin in cold water for 15 minutes and dissolve in the hot milk. Whip the cream until stiff and add the yolks, gelatin and half the sugar. Clean and crush the strawberries and cover with ½ cup of sugar and let stand 30 minutes. Roll the macaroons until they are finely crumbled, then mix the macaroons and strawberries with the whipped cream mixture. Lastly, add the stiffly beaten egg whites and vanilla.

Fill sherbet glasses with the pudding and top each glass with a macaroon and simply wonderful. We have not prepared a day before as it is better when served just as the refrigerating for a few hours. This dessert may be prepared a day before and served just as the refrigerating for a few hours.

He Left Her for Another Girl

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been keeping company with a man of 23 and now he is in the army. He used to write to me all the time. I am 20. He never told me that he loved me, but I felt he liked me. Lately he doesn't write to me as he used to, and when he can't come for the week-end I don't see much of him—just a few minutes at a time. I found out he was keeping company with another girl. I have not said anything to him, but what shall I do when he comes home? Shall I go with him as I used to, or shall I let him go? I am sure the girl he is writing to now and she tells me she doesn't care for him. Please give me some advice.

WORRIED

Dear Worried: If you're not engaged to the young soldier and he has never told you he loves you, how can you be hurt by his going through with him because he goes to see another girl? I mafraid you have let an attack of jealousy run away with your better judgment and lost a very nice boy. Just go on being pleasant to the young man when you see him, act as if nothing had happened and as the days go by you will forget all about him, maybe everything will be all right with you both again.

How to Win Him Back

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I am a daily reader of your good advice and have come to get help on my problem.

My girl friend and I are both 16 years old and we met two fellows about two months ago. We have seen them quite often and I have come to love B. very much. My friend loves B. also. Well, this is our trouble. Last night we were out with them and they acted the same as usual. We both allowed them to kiss us during the night. Each time we have been out they have asked to see us again. Last night they didn't. I love him and I want him more than anything else in this world. What can I do, Miss Fairfax, to win him back? Do you think they never wish to see us again?

TWO BROKEN HEARTS

Dear Broken Hearts: I think you are crossing your bridges before you come to them. Just because the young men omitted the formality of asking you if they might call for you again does not necessarily mean that they do not intend to. If you don't hear from them again, don't take it to heart. Fifteen is the time for making lots of friends, not for settling down to just one.

Lovers' Quarrels

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I am 17 and engaged to a boy of 20, who is very much in love with me. We love each other madly but sometimes it happens that we quarrel when I spend every day. We really do get each other, but act as if we didn't. Do you think we shall always quarrel?

MAE

Dear Mae: I wonder who is to blame for this? Can it be, Mae, that you find it a temptation to flirt once in a while, thereby destroying your fiance's peace of mind? You should talk the matter over together very seriously, both admitting your faults, and determine to stop quarreling for good. If you cannot do this, it will be a mistake for you to marry, for both your lives will be miserable. But why face an unhappy future when it is unnecessary? You are young, intelligent, in love with each other, act together very seriously, both of you, and you will have the treasure that it is.

Miss Fairfax will be pleased to answer readers on troublesome questions of love, marriage and the home. Write on one side of the paper only.

EVENING AMERICAN MARKETS

New York Stocks — News of Street

TRADING AGAIN IS VERY DULL IN WALL ST.

New York, July 2 (AP)—Interest in killing time until the noon-hour stock market was a business as usual affair today although moderate opposite street trade reversed and after the support of the afternoon moderate easing off during the morning.

By early afternoon advances of two points or so were numerous among important issue

MARKET DIGITS

The turnover in noon was only 13,000 shares, the smallest since July of 1928, and the list seemed quiet. Brokers, flanked in charge operators were planning to let the market drift until after the holiday closing over the Independence Day week-end, and commission business generally was less in a dull vein.

Floor traders appeared to be off with the task of keeping the market in motion.

Iron Age estimated that pig production for the country at large had fallen to 60 per cent of capacity, and might dip to 50 before the holiday period has passed.

This publication, however, pointed out that resistance to pressure against steel prices is becoming more determined, and there is a growing belief that the iron and steel market is scraping bottom.

The sharp curtailment of production is expected to give demand a chance to catch up. It was stated that often in the past, such a slowdown has proved the bottom of a recession.

News developments on the surface, however, indicated anything but serious changes in business activity. The midyear condition statements of New York banks showing curtailment in earnings, probably owing to lower interest rates and smaller profits in investment affiliations, showed that the Wall st. institutions are in record set conditions to finance a revival in business when it arrives.

GAS" PRICES CUT.

The treasury surplus of $151,000,000 at the end of the fiscal year was gratifying to Wall st., but reflected cash payments of $76,000,000 from foreign governments and some tax payments on last years record-breaking earnings. Stockholders Asked to Decide Question About Dividends

Hamilton Watch Co. with the mailing of common dividend checks is asking stockholders to express their preference as to monthly or quarterly payments in the future. The June 30 payment, the 328th cash dividend on the company, is a regular monthly rate of 20 cents a share which the company established at the beginning of the current year. Hamilton recently declared an initial dividend of 15 cents a share, payable July 31, on the new no-par common stock exchanged two-for-one for the old $25 parstock.

NEWS OF Trends of the Day BOSTON New York Curb MARKETS

PRICE TREND IS UPWARD IN BOSTON

Prices worked toward higher levels in late trading on the Boston Stock Exchange today. American Telephone was up almost 2 points. Atchison gained over 3 points.

New Haven advanced 1¼, Utilities Equities preferred 1, Venezuela Mexican 2, Eastern Steamship preferred 1 and Part Utilities Second Shares ⅝. General Electric and Anaconda each gained around a point.

Quincy Mining, after an early advance, reacted in latest trading. General Alloys sold a point lower as did Boston & Maine prior preferred. Eastern Gas & Fuel preferred was ⅝ lower. American Founders, selling ex-dividend, was fractionally higher.

Commenting on the action of the Indiana Securities Commission in removing the Boston Stock Exchange from its list of approved stock exchanges, the governors of the Boston Exchange have issued a statement explaining why they have refused to send records to Indianapolis as requested and reiterate their willingness to co-operate with the commission in the investigation of the exchange and to co-operate with public officials generally.

The statement of the governors points out the physical task of sending all of the records requested and the attendant risk of allowing the exchange's original papers and records to go to a distant point and, in addition, says that the Boston Stock Exchange is "ready to bear the proper expenses of inquiries into its operations by public officials who represent states which have given the exchange any privileges whatever."

Wheat Is Lower in Chicago Market

Chicago, July 2.—With unofficial monthly domestic wheat crop estimates averaging 10,000,000 bushels more than similar estimates a month ago, wheat values underwent downturns today. The wheat market was likewise affected bearishly by Australian reports of needed drains. Opening at ¼-¾c decline, wheat showed additional setbacks later.

Corn and oats were also easier, with corn starting unchanged to 1¼c off, then subsequently declining. Provisions tended to advance.

CAN PAY DIVIDENDS

T. M., Stiem—I have been watching Consolidated Gas and the price looks attractive. What are your ideas?

Ans.—Consolidated Gas can pay the current $4 dividend rate established November, 1929, an increase from $3 paid from 1928. Dividends in varying amounts have been distributed for more than forty years. The company is the largest operating gas and electric light enterprise in the country. The yield at present lower levels was approximately 4 per cent. Of course, if you want to buy the stock for speculation we could be of no assistance. Price predictions are based only on conjecture.

EARNINGS GOOD

C. V., Boston—I am considering a purchase of Texas Gulf Sulphur and want some information about the company, particularly the latest earnings.

Ans.—Texas Gulf Sulphur is the larger of two concerns controlling the sulphur supply in the United States. Dividends have been paid from 1021; current annual $4 rate from third quarter of 1926. In 1929 was $6.40 a share, compared with $5.72 in 1928 and $4.76 in 1927; in the first quarter of current year, $1.50 a share, contrasted with $1.53 for similar period in 1929. At recent lower levels the yield was about 5 per cent. What securities do you own? How much cash have you?

SOUND STOCK.

Miss L. E., Norwood—Do you consider American Bank Note a good stock? How long has the company paid dividends?

Ans.—American Bank Note has paid regular dividends, with extras, from 1916. Present $3 rate from January, 1927. January 3, this year, stockholders received $1 extra and 10 per cent in common stock. Net for 1929 was $4.77 a share, compared with $4.21 in 1928 and $3.66 in 1927; in the first quarter of current year 90 cents a share, contrasted with 95 cents for first quarter of 1929. At recent levels the yield was 3 per cent.

United States Smelting Refining & Mining Co.

The Directors of the United States Smelting Refining and Mining Company have declared a quarterly dividend of seventy-five cents (75c) per share on the Common Capital Stock, payable on July 15, 1930, to stockholders of record at the close of business July 2, 1930.

F. W. BATCHELDER, Treasurer.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

America Is Facing Abject Surrender in Treaty Ratification

Unconditional ratification of the London naval treaty would make the American people the victims of an unconditional surrender to foreign dictation unprecedented in American history.

Under this treaty the United States submits to the dictation of Great Britain and agrees to build that type of cruiser which the British permit, in spite of the fact that it is not the type of cruiser useful to Americans.

Under this treaty the United States submits to the dictation of Japan and agrees to an increase in the ratio fixed for Japan at the Washington conference, in spite of the fact that the United States continues to pay the price at which it bought Japan's consent to the Washington ratio.

Under this treaty the United States submits to the joint dictation of Great Britain and Japan and agrees to subordinate, in favor of the combat strength of the concentrated fleet, that protection of sea-borne commerce which has been the primary function of the American Navy since the days of Washington.

Under this treaty the United States not only fails to get naval equality with Great Britain, but is compelled to give to Japan an increase in ratio that will include equality with the United States in submarines.

Under this treaty the United States abandons the all-important principle of limitation by categories, to which both Great Britain and Japan agreed at the Washington conference.

Under this treaty the historic American position so steadfastly defended by President Coolidge at the Geneva conference has been pusillanimously and permanently abandoned.

This treaty was negotiated in secret and throughout its negotiation the American people were wantonly deceived in regard to its cause and effect.

When this treaty was before the Committee on Foreign Relations and witnesses from the navy were called and they told the truth about the treaty, they were quickly made the target for a cowardly and slanderous attack by the Secretary of State.

When the committee called for the correspondence relating to the treaty, it was denied that correspondence, in spite of the fact that it was essential to a thorough examination of the treaty.

And when the Senate shows a disposition to subject this treaty to deliberate and careful examination, an attempt is made to coerce the Senate into immediate ratification by threatening it with cloture if it dares to deliberate.

In these circumstances the unconditional ratification of the London naval treaty would not only be "unjust and unfair" to the American people, but it would be gravely discreditable to their Senators in Congress, to whom the Constitution has entrusted the final and untrammeled control of foreign policy.

McIntyre Abroad

By O. O. McINTYRE

PARIS, JULY 2—A journey to Paris for an American must include a dinner at Ciro's and a seat at the Folies Bergere. Ciro's has been refurnished and like every other decor in Paris has gone completely modernistic. Its tiny bar expands into a sizeable room with space for a dozen tables.

The elect sit in the bar, but there is still the "little room" for favorites. The big room remains for hoi polloi. The urbane Maurice and Julien continue to execute their jack-knife bows at the entrance—the most expert pair of carpet kissers on the continent and at the same time the haughtiest.

Maurice is reputed to remember every name of important Ciro patrons. He addressed me as "M'soo McGonigle"—thus establishing my importance. Outside of the prices the most impressive thing about Ciro's is its cosmopolitanism. Almost every nation is represented nightly. The food is unsurpassed and you may nearly always see Beth Leary there.

The Folies which now happily bars all usher and program tipping, is one of the two leading musical revues. The other is at the Casino de Paris, the latter being more popular with Parisians. The audience at the Folies, save for two mannishly dressed and monocled ladies and an American Negro in full evening dress, was little different from a New York audience.

At the Folies one may purchase flap seats without backs attached to aisle chairs at half price. Thus in case of fire the aisles are almost impassable. The occupant of such a pew next to mine smoked something that suggested hemp to the windward of the Chicago stock yards on a breezy day.

The performance was the usual umbilical display, very naughty, but with a half dozen arresting scenes—one with a bevy of almost nude blondes slithering about in the air in sinuous swoops brought the audience to its feet at a bound. The theme song is a bold steal of "Ain't Misbehavin'."

At the intermission everybody drifts out to the bar and the huge drinking salon where the "percentage cocottes" with arched smiles angle for drinks. Downstairs is a "Danse de Ventre" where for a few francs one may twirl with the hired and remarkably beautiful hostesses. But hold your watch!

Night clubs in Paris offer the same deadly monotony of Broadway. Here, as back home, whatever night club you visit you wish you had gone to another. We tried Le Perroquet and found the usually bored and listless crowd sitting about in a haze of smoke and smileless ambiguity. And they still try to sell you those flopping long legged dolls.

* * *

After Le Perroquet, we made a brief stop at Jos Zelli's where Zelli continues to clap his hands and cry "Show the Prince the royal box!" in greeting every newly arrived sucker. The crowd was thin but it was only 1 a. m. and the didoes do not begin at Zelli's until 3 a. m.

Simile: As full of different meanings as a French shrug.

After four days I find myself trotting around the boulevards with an umbrella hooked over my arm. In another week I may go completely native and buy a pair of black gloves. Vive la France!

Keeping Navy Yard Busy

A Promise That Should Be Kept

Governor Allen seems to have received the assurance of the Navy Department for steady employment at the Charlestown Navy Yard.

Let us hope that the assurance was given in good faith; that it represents more than the amenities of a social conference and more than a political gesture on the eve of a campaign. Washington bureaucracy is more generous with its pledges than it is in the fulfillment of them.

The Navy Yard represents a very substantial investment. Its overhead goes on, whether its quays and shops are idle. In common with our New England shipyards it contains the most efficient skilled labor in the United States.

If so many of our "leading" citizens had not been turning up their noses so long at any suggestion of the policy of public ownership they would have been campaigning thoughtfully for the repair and construction of private ships in these yards so long as they were not congested with naval work.

Thus would have been derived the double advantage of reduced overhead expenses and steady employment for a large number of our people.

Also, a skilled mechanic who goes to work for his government has the right to the expectancy of permanent employment. The government should set the wages and standards high enough to be the model for all private employers.

A Family's Grief

Navy Refuses to Help Recover Body of Drowned Son

Americo Louis Ferragamo, aged fourteen, was drowned two week ago in Idlewood Lake at Wenham.

Not only is Louis gone, but the devout family have been deprived of the chance of offering their prayers in requiem over his body and of making the religious devotions which are the custom of their faith.

Representative Carroll of Revere believed that the body might be recovered for such solace as might be contained for the grieving family and he applied to the Navy Department for the loan of a diving suit.

He learned to his surprise and to his rightful indignation that the Navy has "a strict rule" against this sort of thing. Diving suits are not to be loaned when they might compete with private business. But if Mr. Carroll could get into touch with the Secretary of the Navy possibly an exception would be made in this case!

Neither newspaper type nor plain language could express the exasperation which the senseless compliance with such a ridiculous rule provokes.

The head of the man who made such a rule ought to be bumped against the head of the fellow who so rigidly enforces it. Perhaps such a crash would produce an ounce of brains and compassion between them, and perhaps not.

Charlestown's School

Charlestown is to have its $600,000 intermediate school. Councillor Tom Green said, "Give the son of the industrial worker the same opportunity to prepare for life's battles as is given children in other sections of the city." It is a good sentiment, well expressed. We may all hope that the city of Boston, home of Horace Mann and birthplace of free public education, will stand with fidelity to the principle.

A Medal for a Hero

Government Should Also Fix Fairfax Blame

A posthumous citation has been made by the Navy Department in honor of J. B. Walker, chief pharmacist's mate. He is the Maine boy who dived to his death in the attempt to save the life of a panic-stricken woman who had plunged from the steamer Fairfax into the burning cauldron that was the sea.

The citation was deserved. Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his fellow-being.

When the government has disposed of the effulgent tributes which are appropriate to the occasion we shall all see whether with the same ardor it definitely fixes the responsibility for the disaster off Scituate.

The memory of Hero Walker and the forty-eight others who perished as the result of the Fairfax-Finthis tragedy as well as the safety of future travelers at sea requires the government to be as courageous in placing the blame as it is in the conferring of awards upon those whose lives are gone.

H. G. Wells on 'The Science of Life'

THERE MUST be units whose business is with the control of flower-color. And these units, Mendel supposed, were self-perpetuating and not mix with each other.

Today we call these units by the technical name of genes. All the countless breeding experiments that have gone on since Mendel's work was rediscovered have confirmed his original idea, and in addition have established a new fact. It is inferred. But its existence is none the less real for that.

H. G. Wells

A century ago, scientific men were forced to believe in the existence of atoms by the chemical behavior of different substances when they combined and separated.

Today, scientific men have been forced to believe in the existence of genes by the reproductive behavior of animals and plants when they are forced to breed together. "Gene" is simply a shorthand phrase for "that something in the chromosomes, whatever its nature may be, which is responsible for a particular character and its particular way of transmission from parent to offspring."

We have gradually got to know a great deal about the nature of atoms, besides the mere fact that they are the units whose existence we have to assume to explain the way of chemical combination; and we are beginning to learn something about the nature of genes, besides the mere fact that they are the units of whose existence we must assume to explain the way of hereditary transmission.

But the main point about them is that we have to assume that they exist, whatever their nature may be, or else the facts of inheritance are inexplicable.

Since every cell of the plant (except for the actual reproductive cells) contains a double chromosome outfit, it must contain two of these color-producing genes. In the original red plant from which we started, these genes were red-producing; in the white plant they were of such a quality that flowers were white.

When the cross was made the hybrid plants of the first generation got one of their two chromosome outfits from each of their parents. Whence it follows that their cells contain one color-controlling gene of each kind—one red-producer and one white-producer. So that the resulting flowers are a compromise between red and white—that is, pink.

Now when these mixed plants become mature and produced reproductive cells, the result was more complicated. Manifestly when their chromosomes were sorted out in the reduction division there must have been a separation of the red gene from the white; there must have been red-carrying pollen and white-carrying pollen, red-carrying ovules and white-carrying ovules.

So that when these pink plants were bred together four kinds of fertilization ensued so far as color genes were concerned.

(1) A red-carrying pollen-grain might fertilize a red-carrying egg—result, a red-flowered plant.

(2) A red-carrying pollen-grain might fertilize a white-carrying egg—result, a pink-flowered plant.

(3) A white-carrying pollen-grain might fertilize a red-carrying egg—result, a pink-flowered plant.

As we have seen, all these possibilities happened. The second hybrid generation was mixed and contained red, pink and white-flowering plants. And so will any generation bred from pinks.

We can go further than this. By following a similar line of reasoning (the details of which we leave to the reader's ingenuity) we can prophecy that on crossing a pink with a red the first hybrid generation would include both pinks and reds, but no whites. Similarly on crossing a pink with a white we should get pinks and whites, but no reds.
